Flood Deaths In Brazil Rise To Nearly 400

50,000 Homeless; Capital Climbing Back To Normal

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Stricken Rio slowly returned to normal today as clearing skies reduced the danger of new floods and landslides which have left a toll of nearly 400 dead.

The city's death count climbed to 198 Friday night and another 170 were reported to have died in the surrounding area. Many more deaths were believed unreported in isolated communities.

Rio's morgue closed Friday night for the first time since the rains started Monday and the search for more bodies in the debris was suspended for the night.

More of the dead came from the favelas — the shantytown slums on Rio's hillsides. At least 40,000 were reported homeless there. Some had to be evacuated by force. About 10,000 homeless were reported in areas surrounding the city.

A spokesman for Guanabara State Gov. Francisco Negrao de Lima said the government was considering long-term housing construction plans for the slum dwellers. He said all plans depend on "federal or international aid."

So far, the federal government has set up a fund to provide low-cost loans of 5 million cruzeiros or $2,250 to families who lost their homes in the floods.

The United States is providing foodstuffs and Indonesia has donated $5,000.

There was still a water shortage after a rock damaged a

Hays' Petition Entered Here For 9th Term

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Flushing filed today with the Columbiana County Election Board to seek renomination for a 9th term as 18th District congressman in the Democratic primaries May 3.

The 54-year-old Belmont County native has represented the district since 1948. The district's territory was broadened, but its name was left unchanged, in the legislative reapportionment that will be in effect for the 1966 elections.

The district now is comprised of Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Tuscarawas, Harrison, Monroe and Noble Counties. Before the boundaries were changed, it was made up of Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Carroll and Harrison Counties. Columbiana still is the most populous county in the district and as such will continue to administer the congressional district's election.

Stock Action Taken

Crucible Moves Against 'Rebels'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two new steps have been taken by the Crucible Steel Co. of America to turn the tables on a group of dissident stockholders trying to gain control of the company.

The company Friday called for redemption of its entire issue of 5¼ per cent convertible perferred stock. For a period of 30 days each share can be converted into 3.44 shares of common stock.

The action was seen as a move to dilute the voting power of the rebel group of stockholders headed by Chicago industrialist Morton J. Rubin.

Crucible President Joel Hunter said there are about 99,880 shares of preferred stock outstanding; and if all were converted, it would increase the number of common shares outstanding from 3,879,169, to 4,222,760.

In another move, Crucible announced that newly-elected director Norton Simon and Hunt Food and Industries, Inc., plan to buy the equivalent of at least 206,000 shares of common stock through purchase of either convertible preferred or common stock or both.

This was interpreted as a move to permit Simon to gain sufficient holdings to fight the takeover bid.

Simon, a West Coast financier who has been involved in several corporate takeovers, was elected chairman of Crucible's Finance Committee.

It's believed to be the first time a corporate management has voluntarily invited Simon to join it. Simon also is chairman of both Hunt Foods and Wheeling Steel Corp.

Between Washington, New York

Volleys Of Sharpshooting Fly Over Transit Package

NEW YORK (AP) — Over the roar of New York's transit system, volleys of subway sharpshooting fly between Washington and City Hall.

President Johnson Thursday attacked the settlement of the 12-day bus and subway strike as inflationary. He said the terms exceeded the government's 3.2 per cent guideline on wages and prices.

Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay suggested that Johnson "was not as familiar with all the facts of this case as was Wirtz."

He was referring to W. Willard Wirtz, secretary of labor, who fired off a telegram to Lindsay Friday night saying Johnson's statement reflects "the facts in this case as I know them."

He added: "Your recollection and your arithmetic are wrong. The settlement may have been necessary to relieve the city from unconscionable bondage. But it was unquestionably outside the stabilization policies."

A spokesman for the mayor said Lindsay had not received the telegram and would have no comment on it until he did.

The transportation crisis ended before dawn Thursday when the Transit Authority and the striking unions agreed on a settlement estimated at between $52 and $70 million over two years.

Government economists figure the wage increase in the package at 4.5 to 4.6 per cent a year, in excess of the 3.2 per cent guidelines. These guideposts — the observance of which is voluntary — reflect government estimates that a worker's productivity increases at 3.2 per cent a year.

In a news conference Friday Lindsay said Dr. Nathan Feinsinger, chairman of the mediation panel that worked out the settlement, now feels that the agreement will represent a 3.6 per cent increase. Earlier, Feinsinger had said he did not believe it would exceed the guideposts.

Lindsay said Secretary Wirtz had been helpful and was familiar with every step of the negotiations. But, he said, it was not the secretary's "role to pass judgment on the ultimate settlement."

Wirtz, in his telegram to Lindsay, said he had consistently pointed out to "you and to the panel members my view that it was most important that this case be settled with due regard

Italy's Moro To Press Viet Peace Efforts

Premier Bolstered By Confidence Vote In Deputy Chamber

ROME (AP) — Italian Premier Aldo Moro, bolstered by a concidence vote in the Chamber of Deputies, was expected to press ahead today with efforts to help end the Viet Nam war.

Moro won the vote by 325 to 154, well above the 240 votes needed. He closed the two-day debate with a speech supporting President Johnson's diplomatic offensive to get Viet Nam peace talks started.

"We have encouraged the American government above all in that vigorous and sincere peace initiative which began with the Christmas truce and the indefinite suspension of bombing in North Viet Nam," Moro said.

The premier added that, in "this particularly decisive moment" of the Viet Nam crisis, Italy was trying to help on three peace fronts:

— Recommending to its allies and friends patience and a will to negotiate.

— Suggesting to Communist countries that they show interest in overcoming world tensions.

The confidence motion approved not only Moro's Viet Nam policy but also the way he took on the additional job of foreign minister.

Moro assumed the role Dec. 29 when Amintore Fanfani quit in the wake of criticism for his part in a Hanoi peace-feeler

3 Bound Over In Jefferson For Robbery

Three Wellsville men accused of the strong - armed robbery of an Empire youth were bound over to the Jefferson County Grand Jury on charges of unarmed robbery when arraigned Friday night before Jefferson County Judge A. H. Evans Jr. at Toronto.

Bonds of $1,000 each were set for Sidney Hubert Uhl, 18, of 2115 Chester Ave., Kenneth Dean Buckel, 19, of Wellsville R.D. 1 and Thomas Randall Buckel, 22, of Danbury Ave.

Both Buckels were released a short time later after posting bond, but Uhl still was being held today in Jefferson County Jail at Steubenville in lieu of bond.

The trio, along with an East Liverpool juvenile, allegedly robbed Norman Cunningham Friday night a week ago.

Cunningham told police he was picked up by the four in a car and robbed of his money and personal belongings. He later was dumped out of the car on a rural road.

Viet Capital Security Is 'Beefed Up'

Marines Move In As Power Play Is Feared Against Ky

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A contingent of South Vietnamese marines moved into Saigon tonight to "increase security," a reliable informant reported.

The troop movement, involving the 4th marine battalion, came in the midst of a flurry of rumors throughout Saigon of a possible power play against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government by generals fearing a sellout to the Viet Cong in the current diplomatic campaign to end the war.

Earlier an informant said 30 truckloads of Vietnamese soldiers and four armored personnel carriers had broken through a police checkpoint at Phu Lam, about 10 miles south of Saigon, and refused to heed orders to stop.

The report generated a slight stir in Saigon, for stationed 30 miles south of the checkpoint is the Vietnamese 7th army division, which played key roles in previous coups in South Viet Nam.

In Washington, the Pentagon reported it had communication with the U.S. command in Saigon and was told: "There is no foundation for that report." It said the troop movement was routine.

The informant reporting the marine movement did not offer any immediate explanation for a need to increase security in the capital.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman are visiting Saigon for conferences with Ky and other leaders. At the time of the marine movements, they were at dinner at Ky's residence. Ky later went with them to the residence of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Rusk In Saigon Launches Talks With Viet Heads

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk launched a whirlwind round of talks with South Viet Nam's top leaders today, reportedly to assure them President Johnson's peace efforts will not undercut the Saigon regime.

Rusk, accompanied by special presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman, met briefly with Chief of State Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu and then talked for an hour with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Foreign Minister Tran Van Do.

"We had very interesting talks. We are going to see each other again tonight," Rusk told newsmen, apparently referring to his dinner engagement with Ky.

He declined to say what subjects were discussed at the meetings, but diplomatic sources said he came here to tell Ky that Johnson's diplomatic moves on ending the war in Viet Nam would not pull the rug from under Ky's regime.

Rusk also met with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other American officials.

Ky, in a speech at the closing ceremony of the second Armed Forces' Day congress warned that whatever peace moves are generated, "no other nation is qualified and able to decide our destiny, independently of our own will."

He praised the current peace offensive with a special word for Pope Paul VI, but warned all would-be peace makers to beware of making any deals without his government's sanctions.

"We have accepted and are grateful for the moral and material, military and economic assistance from the friendly countries," he said. "But never can we tolerate any interference harmful to our nation's sovereignty or any decision at variance with our people's aspirations."

Declaring "we are determined not to be Communist," Ky said his war Cabinet has attained some political stability and as this grows, the machinery will be created for democracy, which he said is the only force that can destroy communist.

He promised that "real democratic elections" will be held in 1967.

"The armed forces have assumed power, not with the intention of clinging to it, but to create the necessary conditions for setting up a genuine democracy," he said.

Ky said his government planned to create a "democracy building council" after the lunar New Year which will hold seminars throughout the country on a proposed new constitution. Points raised in the seminars

1,000 Americans There Not Harmed, Report Indicates

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — A broadcast by Lagos radio today said the army has taken power in Nigeria "to bring an end to gangsterism and disorder."

The proclamation was read on the radio by a high ranking officer whose name could not be made out. In a calm voice, he said an end must be brought to despotism and corruption in Nigeria.

Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafewa Balewa, who presided only this week at a British Commonwealth meeting in Lagos discussing rebellious Rhodesia, was reported under house arrest.

Washington also heard that the Nigerian army had overthrown the government but information reaching the U.S. capital was fragmentary, though Lagos, the Nigerian capital, was reported calm. About 1,000 Americans live in the western region of Nigeria and none appear to have been harmed, U.S. sources said.

Moscow radio reported: "The only thing that is known is that the 8,000-strong Nigerian army is commanded by Maj. Gen. Agiyi Ironisi."

Unconfirmed reports in Cotonou said that the prime ministers of West Nigeria and North Nigeria had been killed. Chief Akintola was the prime minister of West Nigeria and Surdar Ahmado Bello of North Nigeria. These reports were passed on by reliable sources who refused to be named.

Some ministers in the West Nigerian government also were reported to have been slain. Widespread disorders were reported in this region, which apparently left casualties. Police and the army were reported to be cooperating to restore order.

Wire, telephone and cable connections with Nigeria were severed.

Action Slated On Boost For Clerical Help

Council is scheduled to set Monday night on an ordinance granting $40-a-month raises to City Hall clerical workers not included in a general municipal pay boost last May and another piece of legislation setting up graduated longevity pay for hourly-rated employes.

The $40 boosts would go to secretaries and other clerical help in the offices of the mayor, safety - service director, solicitor and auditor, as well as others in the income tax, water department and Civil Defense offices. Dog Warden Harold Flowers also is on the list.

The clerical help at City Hall was excluded from the general hike last May, but virtually every other appointive employe of the city was included.

The longevity pay proposed for the hourly-rated workers would be simliar to raises granted the fire and police departments in late December that also are based on length of service.

Those proposed for the hourly-rated employes are graduated by percentages, while the boosts for the firemen and police were

Imperial Bank Holdup Backfires

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police said a drunk man tried to hold up a bank in nearby Imperial Friday—and had a heck of a time.

Steve Quinn, 43, staggered into the Union National bank office and poked a shotgun through a teller's window, police said.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, who knew Quinn, turned from her work at an adding machine and said:

The gunman moved back; and started wandering around the lobby.

Another bank employe, Mrs. Virginia Boble, approached him and said:

"May I help you?"

She pushed aside the gun barrel. Wham, it fired. The charge hit a wall, but no one was hurt.

Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Smith wrested the gun from Quinn's hands, police said, and Quinn made a quick exit, jumping into a car outside.

Police arrived. A woman outside yelled:

"He's back."

The police ran outside. They spotted Quinn in a car near the bank entrance. He had another shotgun.

Police yanked him from the car. Wham, the shotgun went off. Again, no one was hurt.

51 Killed And 10 Survive Plane Crash In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A Colombian airliner with 61 persons on board plunged into shark-infested waters off the coast Friday night. Officials reported 51 persons were killed and 10 survived.

The four - engine, propeller-driven DC4, broke in two and its rear section sank in heavy seas. The plane crashed about five minutes after taking off from the Caribbean port of Cartagena for a 20-minute flight to Barranquilla.

About 50 Colombian navy boats, 2 fishing vessels and a U.S. amphibious plane joined the search but rescue efforts were suspended early today due to the rough seas and the danger from sharks.

The Avianca airliner carried a crew of five. Most of the passengers were Colombian, authorities said.

Tompos Bill Seeks Court For Hancock

Action Slated On Boost For Clerical Help

Council is scheduled to set Monday night on an ordinance granting $40-a-month raises to City Hall clerical workers not included in a general municipal pay boost last May and another piece of legislation setting up graduated longevity pay for hourly-rated employes.

The $40 boosts would go to secretaries and other clerical help in the offices of the mayor, safety - service director, solicitor and auditor, as well as others in the income tax, water department and Civil Defense offices. Dog Warden Harold Flowers also is on the list.

The clerical help at City Hall was excluded from the general hike last May, but virtually every other appointive employe of the city was included.

The longevity pay proposed for the hourly-rated workers would be simliar to raises granted the fire and police departments in late December that also are based on length of service.

Those proposed for the hourly-rated employes are graduated by percentages, while the boosts for the firemen and police were

Imperial Bank Holdup Backfires

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police said a drunk man tried to hold up a bank in nearby Imperial Friday—and had a heck of a time.

Steve Quinn, 43, staggered into the Union National bank office and poked a shotgun through a teller's window, police said.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, who knew Quinn, turned from her work at an adding machine and said:

The gunman moved back; and started wandering around the lobby.

Another bank employe, Mrs. Virginia Boble, approached him and said:

"May I help you?"

She pushed aside the gun barrel. Wham, it fired. The charge hit a wall, but no one was hurt.

Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Smith wrested the gun from Quinn's hands, police said, and Quinn made a quick exit, jumping into a car outside.

Police arrived. A woman outside yelled:

"He's back."

The police ran outside. They spotted Quinn in a car near the bank entrance. He had another shotgun.

Police yanked him from the car. Wham, the shotgun went off. Again, no one was hurt.

51 Killed And 10 Survive Plane Crash In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A Colombian airliner with 61 persons on board plunged into shark-infested waters off the coast Friday night. Officials reported 51 persons were killed and 10 survived.

The four - engine, propeller-driven DC4, broke in two and its rear section sank in heavy seas. The plane crashed about five minutes after taking off from the Caribbean port of Cartagena for a 20-minute flight to Barranquilla.

About 50 Colombian navy boats, 2 fishing vessels and a U.S. amphibious plane joined the search but rescue efforts were suspended early today due to the rough seas and the danger from sharks.

The Avianca airliner carried a crew of five. Most of the passengers were Colombian, authorities said.

It was not immediately known what caused the crash.

The judge's term would be eight years. The first judge would be elected in November this year.

Rain with temperatures in the 30s and 40s spread from Louisiana into the Carolinas and freezing rain and sleet were forecast for eastern North Carolina. Heavy snow warnings were issued for the mountains of western North Carolina and eastern Tennessee.

Thunderstorms broke out in milder air along the Gulf Coast through southeast Alabama and the Florida Panhandle and an inch and a third of rain drenched Dothan, Ala., in six hours.

Rough weather developed in portions of northern Florida, southern Georgia and extreme southeast Alabama.

As a new wave of Arctic cold surged toward the Great Plains, cold wave warnings continued for portions of the western Dakotas and central Nebraska. Temperatures were expected to reach 20 below zero in northern border areas by Sunday morning.

Cold weather also prevailed in northern New England and light snow fell in the area.

Pacifist Denied Legislature Seat

Bond's Supporters Battle Police In Georgia Capital

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Fervent supporters of a pacifist civil rights leader denied a seat in the Georgia Legislature battled police Friday, swinging picket signs, pocketbooks and umbrellas.

But the next move was uncertain in support of Rep.-elect Julian Bond, a 26-year-old Negro kept from taking his seat during the present legislative session because of his anti-Viet Nam stand.

About 1,000 marchers rallied at the state Capitol Friday to demand that Bond, an officer of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, be sworn in.

The rally, led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., erupted into violence when about 50 demonstrators suddenly rushed state patrolmen and pummeled them with signs, pocketbooks and umbrellas.

Afterward, James Forman, SNCC executive secretary, said a rally would be held at City Hall today, but another SNCC spokesman said Friday night plans for the rally were uncertain.

In a related development, U.S. Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan ruled Friday Bond's case challenging the General Assembly's action would be heard by a three-judge panel.

The federal suit, however, apparently will not come before the middle of next week. Morgan said that state officials are legally allowed five days to file a reply before a hearing can be held.

Bond, an Atlanta Democrat, was refused his seat Monday because he endorsed a SNCC statement calling U.S. involvement in Viet Nam "aggression" and said he admired the courage of draft-card burners.

The SNCC statement said civil rights work should be classed as a valid alternative to the draft.

The rally at the gold-domed Capitol Friday originated from two places — Dr. King's Ebenezer Baptist church and Atlanta University.

Dr. King was at the head of the three-mile march from the university and Bond's father, Dr. Horace Mann Bond, dean of education at the university, led the march from the church.

When the protest columns converged at the Capitol, Dr. King mounted a truck bed and told the cheering crowd there was no justification for the House action.

"It is both amusing and ironic to hear the state legislature today talk so reverently about protecting the United States Constitution," he said.

He said the General Assembly in 1954 had defied the law of the land through opposition to the U.S. Supreme Court's school desegregation decision.

Brown Sees Hope In 1966 For Republican Comeback

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The nation's newest Republican congressman, Clarence J. Brown Jr., saw hope today for a 166 GOP comeback as great as that after the Democratic landslide of 30 years ago.

"The Republican response in 1966 could be a strong one," Brown said in a keynote speech prepared for a "school of politics" of the Ohio Young Republicans.

"There is a traditional reaction away from the administration in power in the off-year elections. The signs of this reaction are already apparent.

"The extent of this Republican response depends on you."

Brown noted that in 1938, two years after the worst showing ever made by a Republican presidential candidate, the GOP rebounded from disaster to elect 10 new governors, six new senators and 80 new U.S. representatives.

Republicans elected in that recovery, he said, included "the leadership which was to dominate the Republican party for the next generation"—including his father, the late U. S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, the late U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft and former U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker.

Brown, elected in a special balloting last November to succeed his father, said a congressional gain in 1966 comparable to that of 1938 would give the GOP control of the U. S. House of Representative and a nearly even margin in the senate.

"I feel we are in a better position than after the 1936 election to rebuild Republicanism to a nationwide majority," said Brown.

"All over the nation the promise of Republican victory is apparent," he said, listing as factors dissatisfaction with the war in Viet Nam, dismay over inflation, disappointment with the Great Society and discouragement over "the wasteful extravagance of the Johnson administration."

Man Who Fired Rifle Near White House Facing Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 35-year-old Yonkers, N.Y., man whose wife says he has a history of mental hospitalization was undergoing examination today after he discharged a rifle into the air near the White House.

Raul R. Torres told police after he was arrested Friday that he fired the weapon to "attract attention." When seized, he was carrying a sign saying he disliked "illegal mental state hospitals" "illegal court martials" and "illegal prison terms."

Police said he was carrying a letter indicating he had appealed to President Johnson for a review of his discharge from the service. Police in Yonkers said they had been told a Secret Service warrant also had been issued against Torres accusing him of sending threatening letters to the President.

The incident took place after Torres was sighted by a Washington policeman carrying a rifle at Pennsylvania Avenue and 15th Street — about one block from the White House at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

"Hey, what are you doing with that gun?" the officer asked. Police said Torres then stepped into an alley, slipped some cartridges into the rifle, and fired it.

After a scuffle, he was seized by three policemen, charged with possession of a prohibited weapon and sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for examination.

Torres' wife and 8-year-old daughter were with him when the incident took place. They planned to return to Yonkers.

Mrs. Torres told police she helped her husband draw his protest sign. She said they also have a 14-year-old son.

Land Considered By UF In Beaver

The United Funds of Beaver County has accepted an offer to consider property adjacent to the Beaver County Home and Hospital as a possible site for a centralized United Fund Agency complex.

Joseph N. Tosh, UF president, said "we are extremely appreciative of the county commissioners' generous offer of considerable free acreage."

He indicated that the board will request the Beaver County Planning Commission and several UF agencies to study the feasibility of the area for the provisions of health and welfare services to the county.

The UF has no present plans to finance or construct its own agency complex. Instead, several UF agencies anticipate use of present and future government grants for the construction of new facilities within the next few years.

"The United Fund does not have the money to construct its own central facilities. However, several affiliated agencies already have indicated steps to acquire federal funds to construct such facilities for their growing needs," Tosh said.

The Beaver County Mental Hygiene Clinic, a member of the United Fund agency, has been notified of a federal grant to construct a community mental health center. To obtain the grant, the agency must provide local matching funds and begin construction on June 30.

ADD INTEREST WITH PATTERN

There is no set rule which governs the amount of pattern that can be effectively used in a room. It is largely a matter of individual taste.

The size and style of the room will be guiding factors, of course. We are all aware that too many patterns produce a cluttered, busy effect.

The function of the room should be taken into consideration before a pattern is decided upon. If a lively, gay effect is desired, as in a dining room perhaps, then bright-colored, definite patterns work out satisfactorily. In a bedroom where a quiet, serene air is preferred, then muted colors and a more indefinite patterns is indicated.

In the contemporary bedroom sketched above, pattern has been used to add interest without being obtrusive. Background of the pattern is the same butternut brown as the wood tones of the furniture. Overlay design is in soft blue. The blue has been repeated on the chair.

The walls are a soft offwhite which relates to the adjoining hall and sitting room.

We strive to bring you diversified furnishings that are closely related in style, yet sufficiently dissimilar to avoid monotony. You are always assured of high quality when you purchase from us, and our prices mean real savings to you. Come in soon.

Pacifist Denied Legislature Seat

Bond's Supporters Battle Police In Georgia Capital

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Fervent supporters of a pacifist civil rights leader denied a seat in the Georgia Legislature battled police Friday, swinging picket signs, pocketbooks and umbrellas.

But the next move was uncertain in support of Rep.-elect Julian Bond, a 26-year-old Negro kept from taking his seat during the present legislative session because of his anti-Viet Nam stand.

About 1,000 marchers rallied at the state Capitol Friday to demand that Bond, an officer of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, be sworn in.

The rally, led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., erupted into violence when about 50 demonstrators suddenly rushed state patrolmen and pummeled them with signs, pocketbooks and umbrellas.

Afterward, James Forman, SNCC executive secretary, said a rally would be held at City Hall today, but another SNCC spokesman said Friday night plans for the rally were uncertain.

In a related development, U.S. Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan ruled Friday Bond's case challenging the General Assembly's action would be heard by a three-judge panel.

The federal suit, however, apparently will not come before the middle of next week. Morgan said that state officials are legally allowed five days to file a reply before a hearing can be held.

Bond, an Atlanta Democrat, was refused his seat Monday because he endorsed a SNCC statement calling U.S. involvement in Viet Nam "aggression" and said he admired the courage of draft-card burners.

The SNCC statement said civil rights work should be classed as a valid alternative to the draft.

The rally at the gold-domed Capitol Friday originated from two places — Dr. King's Ebenezer Baptist church and Atlanta University.

Dr. King was at the head of the three-mile march from the university and Bond's father, Dr. Horace Mann Bond, dean of education at the university, led the march from the church.

When the protest columns converged at the Capitol, Dr. King mounted a truck bed and told the cheering crowd there was no justification for the House action.

"It is both amusing and ironic to hear the state legislature today talk so reverently about protecting the United States Constitution," he said.

He said the General Assembly in 1954 had defied the law of the land through opposition to the U.S. Supreme Court's school desegregation decision.

Brown Sees Hope In 1966 For Republican Comeback

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The nation's newest Republican congressman, Clarence J. Brown Jr., saw hope today for a 166 GOP comeback as great as that after the Democratic landslide of 30 years ago.

"The Republican response in 1966 could be a strong one," Brown said in a keynote speech prepared for a "school of politics" of the Ohio Young Republicans.

"There is a traditional reaction away from the administration in power in the off-year elections. The signs of this reaction are already apparent.

"The extent of this Republican response depends on you."

Brown noted that in 1938, two years after the worst showing ever made by a Republican presidential candidate, the GOP rebounded from disaster to elect 10 new governors, six new senators and 80 new U.S. representatives.

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia has been asked to furnish 372 men for induction into the Army and Marines during February.

The quota is part of a nationwide call for 29,400 men for military service. The Marines were alloted 3,000 of the national total, with the remainder slated for Army service.

The state's February draft call is a big reduction from the January quota of 495 men.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania will supply 1,529 men for the draft in February, compared with 2,237 men in January, state Selective Service headquarters announced Thursday. The national draft call in February is for 29,400 men.

Dirksen was plagued by stomach cramps in the first part of last year, and was hospitalized four times.

Gmoien said today's examination was not related to the stomach troubles.

Farm Bureau Tops Its Goal

LISBON — The Columbiana County Farm Bureau has surpassed its goal of 608 in a membership drive with 610 reported enrolled during a recognition party and supper Friday night at the Mt. Nebo grange. Sixty attended.

The county is the second in the state to reach its goal in the eight-day drive, Mrs. Evelyn Hoopes, organization director, said.

A feature of the campaign was a contest between the Buffalo Bills, captained by Gene Courtney of Beloit R.D. 2, and the Rough Riders, headed by Albert Hartley of Columbiana R.D. 2, in which the Rough Riders were named winners by signing the most members.

Dawson Irey, board president, presented plaques to G. V. Weinstock, district insurance sales manager, and Gene Courtney, dairy cooperative manager, for obtaining 10 per cent enrollment among employes and associates.

Mrs. Hoopes presented prizes to Hartley, captain of the Rough Riders; Robert Murphy, a county insurance agent; Leland Bakers, dairy cooperative executive, and Mrs. Lucille Huston, federation board secretary.

ADD INTEREST WITH PATTERN

There is no set rule which governs the amount of pattern that can be effectively used in a room. It is largely a matter of individual taste.

The size and style of the room will be guiding factors, of course. We are all aware that too many patterns produce a cluttered, busy effect.

The function of the room should be taken into consideration before a pattern is decided upon. If a lively, gay effect is desired, as in a dining room perhaps, then bright-colored, definite patterns work out satisfactorily. In a bedroom where a quiet, serene air is preferred, then muted colors and a more indefinite patterns is indicated.

In the contemporary bedroom sketched above, pattern has been used to add interest without being obtrusive. Background of the pattern is the same butternut brown as the wood tones of the furniture. Overlay design is in soft blue. The blue has been repeated on the chair.

The walls are a soft offwhite which relates to the adjoining hall and sitting room.

We strive to bring you diversified furnishings that are closely related in style, yet sufficiently dissimilar to avoid monotony. You are always assured of high quality when you purchase from us, and our prices mean real savings to you. Come in soon.

Congress Must Make Decision

A week from next Monday, when President Johnson delivers his budget message to Congress, the American people will know how much farther down the primrose path toward inflation the President intends to guide them.

Already the word in Washington is that the newly convened session of Congress will be wracked with debate on guns vs. butter; that is, will increased costs of the war in Viet Nam be offset, at least in part, by reduction in expenditures on the Great Society?

For several years, the value of the dollar has been imperiled by a heavy depletion in the nation's gold reserves. U. S. spending and lending abroad has exceeded $7 billion a year since 1960. Net payments deficits, after considering what the United States has exported, have been running $2 billion to $3 billion a year.

THESE HIGH - FINANCE technicalities are extremely difficult for the average American taxpayer to comprehend. All he really understands is what happens to his pocketbook, and even that is difficult because he has no direct say as to what goes out of his pocket for federal taxes. It too often seems to be extracted painlessly without his having seen it in the first place.

An alarm was sounded recently by Maurice H. Stans, an investment banker who served three years as President Eisenhower's budget director.

He warned that the government now has under way the biggest economic experiment the world ever has seen.

If it succeeds, he said, it will be a major turning point in the economics of government; if it fails, it will be an equally historic event that may shatter forever the strength of the free democratic processes.

THE THEORY is that a government can spend a nation into prosperity and insure full employment by force-feeding the economy through planned deficits. One key to the theory is that a tax cut, when a deficit exists, will stimulate the economy and thereby raise revenues enough to achieve future surpluses.

Most political scientists agree that government has responsibility to run to the rescue of the people in a depression period such as the '30s. Even though years of federal deficit spending to "prime the pump" failed to remedy unemployment during that period, it was accepted.

Now, despite a long period of declining relief rolls and closer approach to the goal of full employment, the federal government still is spending more money than it is taking in for such things as the so-called anti-poverty program in areas where relative wealth exists and to assist the people in "Appalachia," many of whom don't want to change their way of life.

FEW AMERICANS comprehend the shocking fact that as taxpayers they are shelling out $12 billion a year to pay interest on the nation's $322 billion debt. In the 10 years since 1956, the federal debt has increased about 18 per cent but the cost of interest on the debt has climbed 75 per cent, from $6.8 billion a year to $12 billion.

Starting July 1, interest costs will soar to nearly $13 billion a year. That is more than the entire cost of the government before World War II.

Too many in this country have seen what runaway inflation can do to ruin an economy. They saw it in Germany after World War I. They are seeing it now in South America. It has happened on a lesser scale in this country, too.

Inflation comes when a nation overspends itself, just as an individual is plunged into bankruptcy when he overspends. Inflation brings rises in prices faster than rising income can keep up. Businesses go under. Jobs are lost. Eventually almost everybody, including the government, goes broke.

BECAUSE of its remoteness, Americans seem to accept with little resistance what a spendthrift Congress thrusts upon them. These are the same Americans who refuse to stand for deficit spending by their cities, counties, states and schools.

Sure, they are willing to go into debt for capital improvements such as new schools, waterworks, public buildings and highways. But they refuse to permit the debt to get out of hand beyond the point where they can pay it off through current taxation.

Every municipal, county, state and school official knows only too well the bitter taste of failure on spending projects that often should be acceptable, simply because taxpayers refused to pay for them.

Some day, Americans are going to have to focus this same hard fiscal look at federal expenditures, too.

Some day the expanding federal deficit is going to have to come to an end.

A better glimpse into the nation's fiscal future will come on Jan. 24 when President Johnson proposes his new budget.

The view will be even more significant when Congress gets through with it. For it is up to Congress, after all, to decide.

Needed: A Planning Staff

The Columbiana County commissioners, who have shown a special enthusiasm for county planning the last three years, face a real quandry in 1966.

The Regional Planning Commission, which has completed just about all the work it can with non-professionals, has recommended the hiring of a planning director and the start of a comprehensive planning program.

There is every evidence of need for such a plan for this county. Although there has been some development in most areas, clearly much remains to be done in the fields of transportation, building codes, sewage control, subdivision regulations, zoning, industrial development, housing improvement, etc.

Furthermore, the obvious differences of viewpoint between communities in the northern part of the county and the south require some neutral, objective and mediating influence which a planning director could have.

Operating planning staffs are hard at work in Beaver County, Jefferson County, Mahoning County, Stark County and elsewhere.

The time is ripe for an effective planning program in Columbiana County, led by a capable, energetic director.

The county is on the threshold of an era of opportunity which already has begun to unfold in other districts with proper guidance. This nation is in a period of high prosperity, not fully shared here.

The county commissioners have reported the county's financial resources are so limited it is doubtful they can provide the amount of funds needed.

The commissioners have agreed to do all they can to finance the program proposed, and the Regional Planning Commission is seeking to obtain funds from other subdivisions, especially from townships and communities who have not joined the commission to date.

It would be unfortunate if the one means of getting this county out of its economic predicament would be blocked because it could not be put into effect due to lack of money.

Certainly, every effort should be made to make a planning staff a reality for the county this year in order to insure successful development in the future.

To Keep Things Moving

Norman Crabtree, Ohio's aviation director, has come up with a suggestion for helping smaller counties operate the airports which they are establishing under the state's $5 million airport program.

Crabtree this week said the state should have a matching program to get federal aid for aviation facilities, such as that which Columbiana County is planning.

As head of the Aviation Inspection Committee, an arm of the Ohio Assembly which is looking into capital improvements made by the state, Crabtree said, "I recommend we go into some kind of matching program after we get these airports established."

In other states, he said, a community applies and gets 50 per cent federal and 25 per cent state funds to match 25 per cent local funds.

One of the questions facing Columbiana County's Airport Authority is how the new facility will be operated after the runways are built.

Such a matching fund program as used in other states certainly would help get the county airport started toward the type of operation which would prove practical and provide the kind of facility needed to meet the original purpose that of attracting new industry and helping develop existing industry and business in the area.

Red Faces At Tashkent

Word from an obscure city in Soviet Central Asia called Tashkent that India and Pakistan had made an agreement under Russian auspices was followed quickly by news of Indian Premier Shastri's death.

The significance of Russia's role as an Asiatic peacemaker was temporarily neglected. But observers of the international scene are not going to neglect it long, because it may be one of the memorable events of recent years.

Persuading India and Pakistan to reach any kind of agreement has to be triumph of diplomacy. The two countries are divided not only by political but by religious differences — and politics has no wrath like a religion scorned.

The significance of the Soviet union's intercession in a bitter Asiatic dispute is the fact peacemaking between non-Communist belligerents is a departure from a traditional position. Communists always have taken the position that quarrels between their opponents are to be encouraged because anything that upsets the established order is good for Marxist revolution.

The breach with the Chinese Communists, who are fomenting trouble wherever they think they might have something to gain, will be widened by the benign expression on the Russian peacemakers at Tashkent.

Soviet Premier Kosygin, himself, is credited with being the most tireless mediator at Tashkent. Peacemaking is a Soviet policy of first magnitude when the chief official of the central government busies himself with it.

The United States, proud of its own role as peacemaker, now has a rival in the most unexpected quarter.

Rail Union Gets Strike Fever

By Victor Riesel

Meanwhile back at the ranch house, up a piece on Pennsylvania Ave., concern is growing over the possible spread of New York's subway fever to the nation's railroads—a strike fever which eventually could paralyze 190 major lines transcontinental and commuter.

Victor Riesel

Threats of such a strike and even a stoppage or two or ten, actually are good for the country, I recall one Railroad Brotherhood chief saying rather emphatically last month during the massive labor convention in San Francisco.

This man is not a shoot-from-the-lip Mike Quill type. He means what he says for he is the respected H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, which has just notified the country's railroads it now seeks wage and benefit increases estimated to total about $100 million a year.

President Gilbert, who obviously has not visited New York recently, also has some quixotic ideas about "public interest." Since he may some day force a national railroad strike, his views take on a fascination not usually intrinsic in what he says.

"Remember the public interest in this day and age," Mr. Gilbert said in San Francisco some weeks ago, "is an interest defined by Madison Avenue."

If so, that clogged and overrated artery hardly earned its maintenance during the Twelfth Night season.

THUS HERE WE HAVE Mr. Gilbert, an influential labor leader of 30,000 men, and an opinion-molder and policy-maker in his powerful circle, saying the public interest is a product of the image-making business. Nor does he think much more of the "inconvenience to the public."

So that there can be no doubt of his sentiments, his own words are reported here:

"Today's hue and cry against the strike as a major weapon in labor relations rests on the main premise that any strike is an inconvenience to the public."

"I have to ask, what public?"

There are now eight million New Yorkers who would be delighted to tell him personally. But President Gilbert believes that reports of strikes against utilities are "overwritten and overplayed" and the impression he gives is that such strikes really have little temporary or permanent effect.

BOTH HE AND MIKE QUILL have been reading the same literature. During a television interview with this columnist the barbed Brother Quill said that a strike is war. So does Mr. Gilbert, who draws on the long-dead railroad labor and Socialist party leader, Eugene Victor Debs, for the definitive dictum.

Gilbert took the following from Debs, who some 75 years ago was an officer of the Locomotive Firemen. "What is a strike?" asked the founder of the American Socialist party. "The answer is war. And what is war? Resistance to wrong . . . To say there have been unjust, unnecessary wars begs the question; who . . . would have the Constitution of the U.S. so amended that Congress could never declare war?

"And who but an enemy of organized labor would advocate the enactment of a law . . . depriving organized labor of the only weapon it possesses of maintaining its rights against those whose policy is oppression?"

SO WE OBSERVE today's militants talking in the jargon of the last, gaslight century about the politicians and industrialists of today's space century. Mr. Gilbert forgets there is a consensus-minded White House and a labor majority in the Congress.

So Mr. Gilbert's strike-rattling leads him to say that stoppages or threats of walkouts should be the way of life.

There should be no industry too sacred to be shutdown—not trucking, not transportation, not maritime, not communications, not airlines, not powerhouse. As for outer space—landing on the moon, says he, is not more important than maintaining standards on this planet.

Labor should have the untrammeled right to strike. Industry—the railroads—should have the right to resist and take a strike, and if necessary, both sides should fight it out without any government or third party interference. This, says he, is the "checks and balance system."

But what is the public's rights, where it finds that industrial war is hell? Or is this too presumptuous a question to ask?

Odd Facts

Malacca, one of the oldest cities in the Federation of Malaya, is the earliest seat of the Christian faith in southeast Asia. Once a great Malay Sultanate, it became a European colony in the 16th century. It was ruled successively by the Portuguese, Dutch and British, until Malaya's independence eight years ago.

There are only three fully accredited undergraduate schools of naval architecture in the country—at Long Island's Webb Institute of Naval Architecture, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Michigan.

Teen-agers account for about 64 per cent of all car thefts, while professional car thefts accounts for only about five to 10 per cent of the losses in this country, according to Michael Murphy, president of the National Automobile Theft Bureau.

States which no longer require listing of hair color on drivers' licenses include Georgia, New York, Iowa, New Jersey, New Hampshire, and Maine, as well as the District of Columbia.

Automobile racing leads all sports in fatal accidents. There were 151 drivers killed between 1960-64, with more than one-third of the deaths attributed to stock car crashes.

Untold 'State'

By David Lawrence

People Don't Get Clear Picture

Realistically speaking, there is truly no such thing as a State of the Union message by the President. It would be more accurate to describe it as a message on the "state of the party in power" and how it proposes to stay in power.

David Lawrence

For, if a president attempted actually to tell the people about the state of the union, he would have to mention some rather unpleasant matters. He would have to tell about the abuse of governmental power throughout the country—the wasteful expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for purposes which, if the details were known to all the people, would surely be frowned upon as a misuse of their funds.

The custom seems to be for a President to tell a nationwide television audience, in effect, that no administration has ever accomplished as much as his, that the economic future is bright and rosy, and that all that needs to be done is to let the politicians who run the government keep on running it.

There is, of course, the aggravating issue of the war in Viet Nam, but this is dressed up with vague sentences about desirable objectives and the importance of bringing peace to the world. Very little is revealed as to the forces and influences or hostility which confront the United States in the complex problems of diplomacy. Generalities are deemed safer and more expedient for political reasons.

A STATE OF THE UNION message nowadays is carefully prepared for weeks in advance. It's delivered with all the techniques of showmanship and political emphasis that will give the people grandiose ideas of the progress being made.

Nothing is said about the danger of continuous deficits in the federal treasury. On the contrary, an impression is given that sound economic and fiscal policies are being pursued. Thus, the war in Viet Nam may be expensive and require a tightening of the belt, but the idea of cutting off or postponing programs that are really non - essential isn't seriously considered here.

The reasons for the political nature of the presidential address are many, but the most important is the assumption that the people aren't too well informed anyhow. Presumably, they wouldn't understand an explanation of the nation's troubles even if it were given to them dispassionately and without political overtones.

If, however, the citizens were better informed, would they stand for the platitudes of a State of the Union message? Would they be content to listen to the plaudits of administration supporters in Congress? Would they be satisfied with the perfunctory criticisms that come from the opposition?

Today members of Congress appear to be interested primarily in how much money they can get apportioned out of the public treasury to their districts. This used to be called "pork-barrel" appropriations, but the flow has become more like a flood. Where only a few millions were disbursed before, some states now get billions.

THIS PRACTICE wouldn't be so questionable if all the money were spent for worthy purposes and if state and local governments were really unable to take care of their own problems. Nowadays an administration can keep itself in power by distributing funds widely in many populous areas, and incumbent members of Congress also feel they can stay in power indefinitely.

Rarely has an administration maintained such a big majority as the Democrats have in both houses of Congress today. So a State of the Union message by the President is an important piece of salesmanship — a vehicle whereby promises of more and more financial subsidy are delivered to key segments of the electorate.

Nothing in a State of the Union message tells the people that federal deficits, amounting to billions year after year, can bankrupt the treasury or at least cast such doubts on the value of the paper money issued by the government that a runaway inflation might ensue.

Nothing is said about the government's interferences with private businesses or the exercise of control over prices without warrant of law.

Indeed, the cloudy side of the State of the Union doesn't get attention, as would be the case if a frank and forthright analysis were made of the true state of the union in America today.

There is every evidence of need for such a plan for this county. Although there has been some development in most areas, clearly much remains to be done in the fields of transportation, building codes, sewage control, subdivision regulations, zoning, industrial development, housing improvement, etc.

Furthermore, the obvious differences of viewpoint between communities in the northern part of the county and the south require some neutral, objective and mediating influence which a planning director could have.

Operating planning staffs are hard at work in Beaver County, Jefferson County, Mahoning County, Stark County and elsewhere.

The time is ripe for an effective planning program in Columbiana County, led by a capable, energetic director.

The county is on the threshold of an era of opportunity which already has begun to unfold in other districts with proper guidance. This nation is in a period of high prosperity, not fully shared here.

The county commissioners have reported the county's financial resources are so limited it is doubtful they can provide the amount of funds needed.

The commissioners have agreed to do all they can to finance the program proposed, and the Regional Planning Commission is seeking to obtain funds from other subdivisions, especially from townships and communities who have not joined the commission to date.

It would be unfortunate if the one means of getting this county out of its economic predicament would be blocked because it could not be put into effect due to lack of money.

Certainly, every effort should be made to make a planning staff a reality for the county this year in order to insure successful development in the future.

To Keep Things Moving

Norman Crabtree, Ohio's aviation director, has come up with a suggestion for helping smaller counties operate the airports which they are establishing under the state's $5 million airport program.

Crabtree this week said the state should have a matching program to get federal aid for aviation facilities, such as that which Columbiana County is planning.

As head of the Aviation Inspection Committee, an arm of the Ohio Assembly which is looking into capital improvements made by the state, Crabtree said, "I recommend we go into some kind of matching program after we get these airports established."

In other states, he said, a community applies and gets 50 per cent federal and 25 per cent state funds to match 25 per cent local funds.

One of the questions facing Columbiana County's Airport Authority is how the new facility will be operated after the runways are built.

Such a matching fund program as used in other states certainly would help get the county airport started toward the type of operation which would prove practical and provide the kind of facility needed to meet the original purpose that of attracting new industry and helping develop existing industry and business in the area.

Red Faces At Tashkent

Word from an obscure city in Soviet Central Asia called Tashkent that India and Pakistan had made an agreement under Russian auspices was followed quickly by news of Indian Premier Shastri's death.

The significance of Russia's role as an Asiatic peacemaker was temporarily neglected. But observers of the international scene are not going to neglect it long, because it may be one of the memorable events of recent years.

Persuading India and Pakistan to reach any kind of agreement has to be triumph of diplomacy. The two countries are divided not only by political but by religious differences — and politics has no wrath like a religion scorned.

The significance of the Soviet union's intercession in a bitter Asiatic dispute is the fact peacemaking between non-Communist belligerents is a departure from a traditional position. Communists always have taken the position that quarrels between their opponents are to be encouraged because anything that upsets the established order is good for Marxist revolution.

The breach with the Chinese Communists, who are fomenting trouble wherever they think they might have something to gain, will be widened by the benign expression on the Russian peacemakers at Tashkent.

Soviet Premier Kosygin, himself, is credited with being the most tireless mediator at Tashkent. Peacemaking is a Soviet policy of first magnitude when the chief official of the central government busies himself with it.

The United States, proud of its own role as peacemaker, now has a rival in the most unexpected quarter.

Rail Union Gets Strike Fever

By Victor Riesel

Meanwhile back at the ranch house, up a piece on Pennsylvania Ave., concern is growing over the possible spread of New York's subway fever to the nation's railroads—a strike fever which eventually could paralyze 190 major lines transcontinental and commuter.

Victor Riesel

Threats of such a strike and even a stoppage or two or ten, actually are good for the country, I recall one Railroad Brotherhood chief saying rather emphatically last month during the massive labor convention in San Francisco.

This man is not a shoot-from-the-lip Mike Quill type. He means what he says for he is the respected H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, which has just notified the country's railroads it now seeks wage and benefit increases estimated to total about $100 million a year.

President Gilbert, who obviously has not visited New York recently, also has some quixotic ideas about "public interest." Since he may some day force a national railroad strike, his views take on a fascination not usually intrinsic in what he says.

"Remember the public interest in this day and age," Mr. Gilbert said in San Francisco some weeks ago, "is an interest defined by Madison Avenue."

If so, that clogged and overrated artery hardly earned its maintenance during the Twelfth Night season.

THUS HERE WE HAVE Mr. Gilbert, an influential labor leader of 30,000 men, and an opinion-molder and policy-maker in his powerful circle, saying the public interest is a product of the image-making business. Nor does he think much more of the "inconvenience to the public."

So that there can be no doubt of his sentiments, his own words are reported here:

"Today's hue and cry against the strike as a major weapon in labor relations rests on the main premise that any strike is an inconvenience to the public."

"I have to ask, what public?"

There are now eight million New Yorkers who would be delighted to tell him personally. But President Gilbert believes that reports of strikes against utilities are "overwritten and overplayed" and the impression he gives is that such strikes really have little temporary or permanent effect.

BOTH HE AND MIKE QUILL have been reading the same literature. During a television interview with this columnist the barbed Brother Quill said that a strike is war. So does Mr. Gilbert, who draws on the long-dead railroad labor and Socialist party leader, Eugene Victor Debs, for the definitive dictum.

Gilbert took the following from Debs, who some 75 years ago was an officer of the Locomotive Firemen. "What is a strike?" asked the founder of the American Socialist party. "The answer is war. And what is war? Resistance to wrong . . . To say there have been unjust, unnecessary wars begs the question; who . . . would have the Constitution of the U.S. so amended that Congress could never declare war?

"And who but an enemy of organized labor would advocate the enactment of a law . . . depriving organized labor of the only weapon it possesses of maintaining its rights against those whose policy is oppression?"

SO WE OBSERVE today's militants talking in the jargon of the last, gaslight century about the politicians and industrialists of today's space century. Mr. Gilbert forgets there is a consensus-minded White House and a labor majority in the Congress.

So Mr. Gilbert's strike-rattling leads him to say that stoppages or threats of walkouts should be the way of life.

There should be no industry too sacred to be shutdown—not trucking, not transportation, not maritime, not communications, not airlines, not powerhouse. As for outer space—landing on the moon, says he, is not more important than maintaining standards on this planet.

Labor should have the untrammeled right to strike. Industry—the railroads—should have the right to resist and take a strike, and if necessary, both sides should fight it out without any government or third party interference. This, says he, is the "checks and balance system."

But what is the public's rights, where it finds that industrial war is hell? Or is this too presumptuous a question to ask?

Untold 'State'

People Don't Get Clear Picture

Realistically speaking, there is truly no such thing as a State of the Union message by the President. It would be more accurate to describe it as a message on the "state of the party in power" and how it proposes to stay in power.

David Lawrence

For, if a president attempted actually to tell the people about the state of the union, he would have to mention some rather unpleasant matters. He would have to tell about the abuse of governmental power throughout the country—the wasteful expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for purposes which, if the details were known to all the people, would surely be frowned upon as a misuse of their funds.

The custom seems to be for a President to tell a nationwide television audience, in effect, that no administration has ever accomplished as much as his, that the economic future is bright and rosy, and that all that needs to be done is to let the politicians who run the government keep on running it.

There is, of course, the aggravating issue of the war in Viet Nam, but this is dressed up with vague sentences about desirable objectives and the importance of bringing peace to the world. Very little is revealed as to the forces and influences or hostility which confront the United States in the complex problems of diplomacy. Generalities are deemed safer and more expedient for political reasons.

A STATE OF THE UNION message nowadays is carefully prepared for weeks in advance. It's delivered with all the techniques of showmanship and political emphasis that will give the people grandiose ideas of the progress being made.

Nothing is said about the danger of continuous deficits in the federal treasury. On the contrary, an impression is given that sound economic and fiscal policies are being pursued. Thus, the war in Viet Nam may be expensive and require a tightening of the belt, but the idea of cutting off or postponing programs that are really non - essential isn't seriously considered here.

The reasons for the political nature of the presidential address are many, but the most important is the assumption that the people aren't too well informed anyhow. Presumably, they wouldn't understand an explanation of the nation's troubles even if it were given to them dispassionately and without political overtones.

If, however, the citizens were better informed would they stand for the platitudes of a State of the Union message? Would they be content to listen to the plaudits of administration supporters in Congress? Would they be satisfied with the perfunctory criticisms that come from the opposition?

Today members of Congress appear to be interested primarily in how much money they can get apportioned out of the public treasury to their districts. This used to be called "pork-barrel" appropriations, but the flow has become more like a flood. Where only a few millions were disbursed before, some states now get billions.

THIS PRACTICE wouldn't be so questionable if all the money were spent for worthy purposes and if state and local governments were really unable to take care of their own problems. Nowadays an administration can keep itself in power by distributing funds widely in many populous areas, and incumbent members of Congress also feel they can stay in power indefinitely.

Rarely has an administration maintained such a big majority as the Democrats have in both houses of Congress today. So a State of the Union message by the President is an important piece of salesmanship — a vehicle whereby promises of more and more financial subsidy are delivered to key segments of the electorate.

Nothing in a State of the Union message tells the people that federal deficits, amounting to billions year after year, can bankrupt the treasury or at least cast such doubts on the value of the paper money issued by the government that a runaway inflation might ensue.

Nothing is said about the government's interferences with private businesses or the exercise of control over prices without warrant of law.

Indeed, the cloudy side of the State of the Union doesn't get attention, as would be the case if a frank and forthright analysis were made of the true state of the union in America today.

Jaycees To Mark 'Week'

Jaycee Week, marking the founding of the movement, will be observed Monday through next Saturday.

The Jaycees were founded at St. Louis in 1915 and the organization has expanded over the years into an organization of more than a quarter-million members in the United States and has spread worldwide, with chapters in 90 countries. It is the third largest international club in existence.

Highlight of Jaycee Week will be the 26th annual Bosses Night banquet Wednesday at the Country Club. Lou Groza of the Cleveland Browns football team will be guest speaker.

A display will be set up in one of Ogilvie's department store windows showing trophies, plaques and pictures representing activities of the group.

Laneve and Ralph Fusco, president of the Wellsville Jaycees, will be on WOHI Monday at 11 a.m. to discuss the Jaycees and the various activities of the group.

In his proclamation, the mayor said: "The city of East Liverpool, gateway to the Ohio Valley, is a progressive community which believes in and practices freedom, justice and equality for all men and the ideals of the creed of the Jaycees are consistent with and conducive to good government, free enterprise and lawful pursuit of freedom and equality.

"Eighty-four young men of this community have embraced these ideals by joining together in the organization known as the East Liverpool Area Jaycees. The promise of our society of tomorrow lies in the hands of young leaders in our communities today."

Jaycees To Mark 'Week'

Jaycee Week, marking the founding of the movement, will be observed Monday through next Saturday.

The Jaycees were founded at St. Louis in 1915 and the organization has expanded over the years into an organization of more than a quarter-million members in the United States and has spread worldwide, with chapters in 90 countries. It is the third largest international club in existence.

Highlight of Jaycee Week will be the 26th annual Bosses Night banquet Wednesday at the Country Club. Lou Groza of the Cleveland Browns football team will be guest speaker.

A display will be set up in one of Ogilvie's department store windows showing trophies, plaques and pictures representing activities of the group.

Laneve and Ralph Fusco, president of the Wellsville Jaycees, will be on WOHI Monday at 11 a.m. to discuss the Jaycees and the various activities of the group.

In his proclamation, the mayor said: "The city of East Liverpool, gateway to the Ohio Valley, is a progressive community which believes in and practices freedom, justice and equality for all men and the ideals of the creed of the Jaycees are consistent with and conducive to good government, free enterprise and lawful pursuit of freedom and equality.

"Eighty-four young men of this community have embraced these ideals by joining together in the organization known as the East Liverpool Area Jaycees. The promise of our society of tomorrow lies in the hands of young leaders in our communities today."

Perplexing Postal Paths

Missive To Midland Follows Meandering Route In System Designed To Speed The Mail Between Regional Post Offices

By BYRON EELLS

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW
FeaturePages
East Liverpool, O., Saturday, Jan. 15 Page 8

Paraphrasing Mark Twain, "Everyone talks about the postal service. . ."

Despite frequent complaints about delays, the mail does go through. Criticism is always heard, but postal workers could count on one hand the number of times patrons have expressed praise for the service they get.

In this jet age when continents are only hours apart, however, the route the mail follows to its destination sometimes appears to be a devious one.

A letter mailed on a weekday afternoon in East Liverpool and destined for Midland passes through five post offices and the hands of many postal workers — yet it still is delivered the following day.

CONSIDER A letter mailed at a collection box on E. 5th St. Depending on the time the letter is dropped into the box, it, along with others, will be picked up by a carrier and taken to the Post Office for processing.

The outgoing mail will be aligned to face the proper direction and run through a cancellation machine which stamps the date, and post office of origin and whether in the morning or afternoon.

A clerk then separates the outgoing letters into pigeonholes marked with the city or state for which it is destined.

As letters accumulate in one compartment, they are tied with cord and tossed into the appropriate mail pouch. At specific times during the day, the pouches are taken down, locked and tagged to be turned over to the star route driver for delivery to the Steubenville sectional center.

A letter mailed at 12:30 p.m. at the E. 5th St. box will be gathered and in the Post Office about 3:30 p. m. and will be aboard the truck leaving for Steubenville at 6:30 p. m.

AFTER MAKING stops at other post offices en route to the sectional center, the truck arrives in Steubenville about 7:45 p. m.

Regional postal officials have worked out close time schedules to keep the mail on the move. For example, mail from East Liverpool destined for New York must leave Steubenville at 8 p.m.

Because there usually is enough mail in the pouch from East Liverpool for shipment to the Pittsburgh center, the pouch remains locked and ready for shipment. If necessary, the pouch is unlocked and the mail is worked by bundles rather than individual letters.

Depending upon the time of arrival in Steubenville, postal workers send the mail either by train or truck to the Pittsburgh center where the same procedure is followed preparatory to sending the pouch to Beaver or Rochester.

The postal system operates a truck between Pittsburgh and Cleveland which is met in Rochester by a star route driver serving communities down the valley.

Arriving in Midland early in the morning, the pouch is opened by clerks in the Midland office and the mail sorted to carriers. Carriers in turn then process the mail according to the route they follow.

PRIOR TO THE inauguration of the sectional center system, the East Liverpool office formerly had a star route service to Rochester twice a day and mail was dropped off at Midland en route.

Other star routes also operated out of the East Liverpool office to Salem. However, under the present system the city has no direct connection with county offices in Lisbon.

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, as an example, has erected a mail box on the Bell School Rd., across from the Beaver Local Public School, which is served by the R. D. 1 carrier from the East Liverpool office.

However, Beaver Local mail has a Lisbon R. D. 3 address.

So a letter from the IBOP to Beaver Local comes to the East Liverpool office, then is sent to the Steubenville sectional center, shipped to the Canton center and then to Salem and into Lisbon for distribution by the Lisbon R. D. 3 carrier.

POSTAL OFFICIALS point out such divisions of territory are no more unusual than boundary divisions between school districts or between cities and townships.

The main purpose of the sectional center setup is to break down the mail into smaller geographical areas so there is less delay in large postal terminals.

Perplexing Postal Paths

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

Paraphrasing Mark Twain, "Everyone talks about the postal service. . ."

Despite frequent complaints about delays, the mail does go through. Criticism is always heard, but postal workers could count on one hand the number of times patrons have expressed praise for the service they get.

In this jet age when continents are only hours apart, however, the route the mail follows to its destination sometimes appears to be a devious one.

A letter mailed on a weekday afternoon in East Liverpool and destined for Midland passes through five post offices and the hands of many postal workers — yet it still is delivered the following day.

CONSIDER A letter mailed at a collection box on E. 5th St. Depending on the time the letter is dropped into the box, it, along with others, will be picked up by a carrier and taken to the Post Office for processing.

The outgoing mail will be aligned to face the proper direction and run through a cancellation machine which stamps the date, and post office of origin and whether in the morning or afternoon.

A clerk then separates the outgoing letters into pigeonholes marked with the city or state for which it is destined.

As letters accumulate in one compartment, they are tied with cord and tossed into the appropriate mail pouch. At specific times during the day, the pouches are taken down, locked and tagged to be turned over to the star route driver for delivery to the Steubenville sectional center.

A letter mailed at 12:30 p.m. at the E. 5th St. box will be gathered and in the Post Office about 3:30 p. m. and will be aboard the truck leaving for Steubenville at 6:30 p. m.

AFTER MAKING stops at other post offices en route to the sectional center, the truck arrives in Steubenville about 7:45 p. m.

Regional postal officials have worked out close time schedules to keep the mail on the move. For example, mail from East Liverpool destined for New York must leave Steubenville at 8 p.m.

Because there usually is enough mail in the pouch from East Liverpool for shipment to the Pittsburgh center, the pouch remains locked and ready for shipment. If necessary, the pouch is unlocked and the mail is worked by bundles rather than individual letters.

Depending upon the time of arrival in Steubenville, postal workers send the mail either by train or truck to the Pittsburgh center where the same procedure is followed preparatory to sending the pouch to Beaver or Rochester.

The postal system operates a truck between Pittsburgh and Cleveland which is met in Rochester by a star route driver serving communities down the valley.

Arriving in Midland early in the morning, the pouch is opened by clerks in the Midland office and the mail sorted to carriers. Carriers in turn then process the mail according to the route they follow.

PRIOR TO THE inauguration of the sectional center system, the East Liverpool office formerly had a star route service to Rochester twice a day and mail was dropped off at Midland en route.

Other star routes also operated out of the East Liverpool office to Salem. However, under the present system the city has no direct connection with county offices in Lisbon.

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, as an example, has erected a mail box on the Bell School Rd., across from the Beaver Local Public School, which is served by the R. D. 1 carrier from the East Liverpool office.

However, Beaver Local mail has a Lisbon R. D. 3 address.

So a letter from the IBOP to Beaver Local comes to the East Liverpool office, then is sent to the Steubenville sectional center, shipped to the Canton center and then to Salem and into Lisbon for distribution by the Lisbon R. D. 3 carrier.

POSTAL OFFICIALS point out such divisions of territory are no more unusual than boundary divisions between school districts or between cities and townships.

The main purpose of the sectional center setup is to break down the mail into smaller geographical areas so there is less delay in large postal terminals.

Mail in East Liverpool addressed to California residents now can travel as far west as Ogden, Utah, before postal officials have to separate the mail by California destination. Previously, the same mail had to pass through the Chicago terminal with inevitable delays, they point out.

The Lighter Side

The nationwide keening over the tribal customs and fetishes of the latest generation of teen-agers has reached a level just about seven decibels higher than a jet engine at full throttle.

Most of the eye-fluttering and hand-wringing centers in the generation now in its 40's. These staid, smug citizens, now firmly convinced of the virtues of compound interest and annuities, have dropped a mental curtain between today's scenes and memories of their own escapades and attitudes that were just as troubling to another generation of oldsters.

Stout matrons grimace sourly and comment acidly on Elvis Presley and the Beatles and turn up their noses at long-haired types who bang at guitars and sing jazzed up folk songs.

But just a little more than a generation ago, a wavy-haired fellow named Rudy Valee caused just as much—or more—consternation when his nasal tones wailed through a megaphone. "The Maine Stein Song" and "My Time Is Your Time" caused just as many lifted eyebrows as today's "Hang On Sloopy" or "It Aint Me Babe."

A LITTLE LATER, a reed-thin youngster named Frank Sinatra was blamed for causing wholesale swooning amongst impressionable females when he stepped into the spotlight at New York's Paramount Theater and poured syrupy tones into a microphone.

Maybe the frug and the swim are in bad taste, but how can an indictment be handed down by the generation that went wild over the jitterbug—an uninhibited, athletic demonstration in which male partners hurled female dancers between their outspread legs and then over their heads?

The arrangements were better, and so were the musicians, a generation ago, but the oldsters still wagged their heads at what they called "jazz" and what the then current crop of youngsters termed "swing." Not all of the melodies were of the chamber music type, as witness the then budding efforts of Stan Kenton and such items as "Pennsylvania Six Five Thousand" by Glenn Miller.

Some females in today's crop of teen-agers have adopted exaggerated styles of hosiery, abbreviated skirts and attendant frowzy hairdos. They're enough to stir prophetic shakes of the head from staid citizens.

But many of today's staid citizens grew up in the flapper era when styles were just as exaggerated and provoked just as many comments from the geriatrics set.

WHO CAN FORGET the F. Scott Fitzgerald types of the 1920's who wore their hose short and rolled just above the knee, not quite high enough to meet the very short hemline?

The same generation affected a dress style that looked like something out of Mother Hubbard by way of an old meal sack, what with an extremely low waistline and deep V's slashed in the front and back. It was all set off with a cloche hat that regrettably has started to come back into style and a long string of beads that swirled at thigh level.

The male counterpart of the same generation really wore a raccoon coat, provided he could scratch up the cash, along with a battered pork pie hat. Those who were far out affected the baggy knickers called plus fours and long socks of a vivid plaid pattern.

If they preferred slacks, the same generation wore trousers in vivid electric blue hues with abnormally high, pinched waistlines and bell bottoms that ebbed and flowed around their ankles as they walked.

Hardly worse than today's exaggerated Ivy League styles that slim legs down to tooth pick size and make a suit jacket appear as though it was devised for some sort of punishment.

BOTH THE MALES and the females of the younger generation affected yellow raincoats, called slickers, but only if every square inch was covered with the scrawled nicknames of their friends, bright sayings and inane slogans. The slicker was the trademark of the type called "Joe College."

Both young men and women wore four-buckled Arctics, but it was de rigeur to keep the snaps unfastened at all times. They walked with a brisk but waddling stride and the open footgear gave off a flapping sound that some say led to the nickname "flapper" for a whole generation of young women.

The hot rods of the day were not nearly so common. And they were called "flivvers," noisy, fast little cars reworked from an old Model T or Model A.

That was the era of the rumble seat and bathtub gin and the first real break-through into the feminine market by the cigarette companies.

THE GENERATION that grew up in the 1930's was more sedate, principally for want of cash. But its members horrified the older generation by swallowing goldfish on campus, espousing Red ideas, joining anti-war movements, jeering at organized religion and—later—reviling the draft laws.

Admittedly no member of the maturing generations of the 1920's or the 1930's decapitated a grandmother with a butcher knife and then blamed it on fear of impending atomic destruction. They were eras of pranks and nonsense rather than crimes of violence. The well-dressed teen-ager could venture out without a switchblade knife or a bicycle chain as a social arbiter.

But today's generation that seems to be rushing wildly toward self-destruction and jungle law will find itself suddenly joined with the sedately married, mortgage-paying head-shaking oldsters.

And as hairlines slowly recede and waistlines widen they'll look askance at that lost generation that's yet to be born, their children.

Ralph says much of his time is being tracking down the drivers of the cars and the carcasses of the animals.

The law requires that the driver of the vehicle report the accident within a 24 hour period to the game protector in the county in which the kill is made or in the county in which the motorist resides.

But, the law also states that only the owner of the vehicle that kills a deer can claim possession of the carcass.

Several persons have hit deer, then left them lying on the highway, or worse yet, told someone else they can have the meat, Ralph says.

Herein lies the problem. As only the owner of the vehicle can claim the dead deer, anyone else picking up the carcass is subject to a fine of $100 to $500 and, or 30 days imprisonment. Ralph says he has had to prosecute two such cases in the past two months.

ANYONE CAUGHT violating the law also faces the possibility of losing his or her hunting and trapping rights because their license is suspended for three years.

Anyone killing a deer with a car should report it immediately. If you spot a freshly killed carcass along the highway, leave it alone. You can be fined if caught.

Another law states that if the animal is only crippled and has to be destroyed, the owner of the vehicle has no right to the carcass.

Ralph says he also is receiving some reports of alleged poaching of deer. No apprehensions have been made yet, but anyone caught hunting deer illegally or out of season will be prosecuted, he says.

The comparatively new law concerning deer being killed on the highway serves two purposes. The owner of the car now gets the meat, which is some compensation, though often slight in comparison with the damage done to his vehicle. Also, when reported, the wildlife management officials can use the highway kill figures to estimate the number of the deer herds in the state.

RALPH SAYS VERY few violations have been reported during the current small game season.

There were some complaints of hunters getting onto private land without obtaining permission from the owner. This is all very unnecessary because in 90 per cent of the cases, even when the farmer had his land posted, permission will be granted if the hunter asks.

Trapping has been very good in the county, Ralph says.

KNOW OF ANYONE who has done an outstanding job in promoting hunting or fishing in Columbiana County?

Each year the Ohio Division of Wildlife presents a wildlife conservation award in each county to a person selected because of outstanding contributions in providing hunting or fishing opportunities as a result of management decisions affecting at least 50 acres of private property.

If you have any nominations, submit them in a letter address to Ralph N. Drake, Columbiana County Game Protector, Salineville R. D. 1, before Feb. 7.

The letter must include the name and address of the person nominated, the location and size of the managed tract of land, details of accomplishments which provided outstanding opportunities for hunting or fishing and the name and address of the person submitting the letter.

A committee will make the selection.

GROUSE ARE PLENTIFUL. If you want to have some unusual hunting, give them a try.

Some say you either like to hunt grouse or you don't. These birds are very fast and difficult to hit. They live in heavy thickets, especially second growth timber and grape vines. When they flush it sounds as if a freight train just came out of nowhere.

Even veteran grouse hunters say they are startled at times. Virgil Carpenter, Jefferson County game protector, says grouse are plentiful, but hunters are scarce.

There seems to be several grouse on the Highlandtown Game Reserve. There are many in other section of Columbiana County.

SPORTSMEN WHO OWN hunting dogs, or any other kind, are reminded that the 1965 dog license tags expired Dec. 31 and the 1966 tags must be purchased no later than next Thursday.

Wild turkey hunting will be allowed May 4-7 in nine southern counties by special permit. They are Adams, Athens, Hocking, Ross, Monroe, Pike, Scioto, Vinton and Washington.

Applications for free turkey permits are being accepted through March 15. Anyone interested can submit his name, address and hunting license number on a postcard to Turkey Hunt, Division of Wildlife, 1500 Dublin Rd., Columbus, Ohio 43212.

You And The Law

Business had slacked a bit after Christmas, so Joe, owner of an appliance store, decided to do some special advertising. To attract the customers, he advertised a portable radio in the local newspaper for $15, which was about $5 lower than any other store in the area.

The advertisement drew customers — quite a few of them. Much to Joe's dismay the ad said the radio was on sale for $5 instead of $15.

JOE DID not want to lose $10 on each sale, so he posted a sign in the store stating the correct sale price of the item. The newspaper said it would print a correction in the next day's edition.

However, customers standing in Joe's store were angered at the turn of events.

"The ad said the radio costs $5. You've got to sell it to me for that or I'll have you arrested for false advertising," one man demanded.

"I drove 20 miles to buy that radio — I want it for $5," another exclaimed.

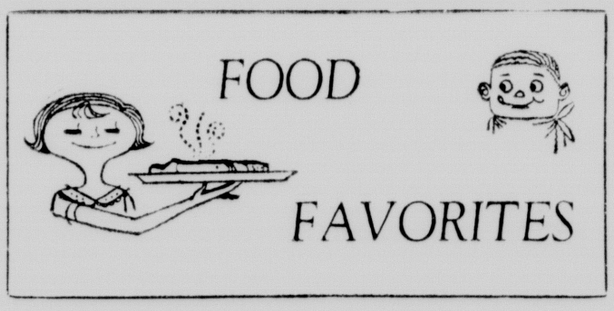
"I'm really sorry," Joe apologized, "but it was a mistake in the advertisement. It was an honest mistake and not intended to mislead any of you. Legally, I'm not obligated to sell the radio for $5."

Was Joe Correct in his statement?

YES, AS a rule, a mistake in advertising does not mean that the item advertised has to be sold at that stated price. An advertisement is usually regarded as an "invitation to bid," rather than "offer for sale."

The mistake must be "honest," however. If Joe deliberately had made the "error" as a come-on to attract customers, he could have been subject to prosecution under Ohio law prohibiting so-called "bait" advertising.

In this sort of advertising, a business attempts to attract customers with a low - priced special, but the customer finds it is "sold" when he arrives or he is advised that a better quality item would be more to his liking.



For cooks who enjoy extra stuffing, here is a recipe sent in by Mrs. Wilma Garvey of 125 W. 2nd St., in which the dressing is not baked in the meat but is heated in the meat gravy during the last minutes of the cooking time.

3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 medium onion, grated fine
4 sprigs parsley, cut fine
3 cups soft bread crumbs or small cubes
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
dash of pepper.

Mix melted butter, grated onion, chopped parsley, egg, salt, and pepper together. Add to the bread crumbs, mix well, but lightly. Then form lightly into balls — the size of golf balls. When the roast is done and gravy is ready, place stuffing into the gravy and heat through.

Orange Dream Delight

2 small or 1 large pkg. of orange Jello
1 pt. orange sherbert or ice
1 can drained mandarin oranges
1 small can drained crushed pineapple or tidbits
½ cup chopped walnuts.

Dissolve jello in 1½ cup boiling water. Stir in sherbert or ice and mix thoroughly. Add fruit and nuts and stir well. After slightly thickened, stir lightly.

1 large can sauerkraut
1 small onion
1 small green pepper
1 pimento
1 cup chopped celery
2 grated carrots
½ cup oil
½ cup vinegar
1¼ cup sugar

Chop onion, green pepper and pimento. Toss all the ingredients together. Let stand overnight before serving.

Home Hints

By Ann Overturf
Columbiana County Home Economist

Our supermarkets certainly contain many convenience foods today. Trying to decide whether the time and energy a convenience food saves the homemaker is worth the price can become real confusing.

A convenience food is any food which has some preparation done by the processer in place of that usually done at home. Such "build-in maid service" is found in items from bakery bread to TV dinners.

This convenience to the homemaker does not increase the cost of many of the foods. Some items are actually less expensive in the convenient form.

Instant coffee, frozen and canned orange juices, canned and frozen peas, canned cherries, canned corn, canned spinach, angel food and devils food cake mixes and spaghetti are some of the items which can save the consumers' pennies in the convenient form.

Convenience foods which rate high on the list of cost increasing items, are ready-to-serve yeast rolls, brown and serve rolls, frozen brocolli, pre-cooked rice, tea bags and frozen dinners.

By considering which convenience foods do save money, the wise homemaker can trim off her grocery bills. Others may feel that the savings in time and energy is more important to them.

Home Hints

By Ann Overturf
Columbiana County Home Economist

Our supermarkets certainly contain many convenience foods today. Trying to decide whether the time and energy a convenience food saves the homemaker is worth the price can become real confusing.

A convenience food is any food which has some preparation done by the processer in place of that usually done at home. Such "build-in maid service" is found in items from bakery bread to TV dinners.

This convenience to the homemaker does not increase the cost of many of the foods. Some items are actually less expensive in the convenient form.

Instant coffee, frozen and canned orange juices, canned and frozen peas, canned cherries, canned corn, canned spinach, angel food and devils food cake mixes and spaghetti are some of the items which can save the consumers' pennies in the convenient form.

Convenience foods which rate high on the list of cost increasing items, are ready-to-serve yeast rolls, brown and serve rolls, frozen brocolli, pre-cooked rice, tea bags and frozen dinners.

By considering which convenience foods do save money, the wise homemaker can trim off her grocery bills. Others may feel that the savings in time and energy is more important to them.

Anti-Viet War Demonstrators Picket Too Late

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators picketed the Allegheny County Jail Friday—nine hours late.

About 20 persons, some carrying signs, paraded outside the jail, apparently believing Thomas Rodd, 19, of Pittsburgh was still locked up inside.

But nine hours earlier, Rodd was removed from the jail and taken to an undisclosed federal prison.

Rodd was sentenced to four years in prison Jan. 7 for violating probation, stemming from his participation in an antiwar demonstration at a helicopter plant near Phliadelphia.

He had been placed on probation for failing to register for the draft.

A spokesman for the jail demonstrators, Frank Kofsky, said the demonstration was staged to call "people's attention to a war that does not serve the interest of the American people."

Kofsky, a teaching fellow in history at the University of Pittsburgh, said the demonstration was sponsored by the Students for a Democratic Society, a local group.

UMW Board Fails Again To Select Vice President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive board of the United Mine Workers union has failed for the fourth straight day to select a new vice president.

The board has been meeting in Washington this week, and each day it was expected to make a decision.

A spokesman said the matter might be handled today.

In the running are Joe Yablonski, president of District 5 in western Pennsylvania; Harrison Combs, assistant director of the union's legal department; John M. Kmetz of Nanticoke, Pa., director of the union; and George Titler, head of District 29 in Beckley, W.Va.

The job is considered a stepping stone to the presidency, now held by W. A. (Tony) Boyle.

At its session Friday, the board criticized the Department of Interior for authorizing an increase in residual oil imports.

In a resolution, it said the decision was a mockery, a cruel blow to miners and a danger to national security.

Senior Citizens Plan For Spring

Several trips during the spring were discussed at a meeting of the East Liverpool Senior Citizens Group Thursday afternoon at the parish house of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Daisy McCain, supervisor, presided in the absence of Ollie Campbell, president, who is a patient at St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh.

The sunshine committee reported a number of members sick at home and in the hospital. The meeting opened with the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, flag salute and the singing of "America."

The corsage was received by Mrs. Ethel Johnson.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes Friday approved an $11,970 allocation to the Greene County Economic Opportunity Steering Committee Inc., of Xenia for that city's initial antipoverty federal grant.

Total funds for the six-month program is $13,259, local share of which is $1,289 to be paid through contributions.

Douglas Accepts Political Challenge Of Ex-Student

CHICAGO (AP) — Paul H. Douglas, a one-time professor of economics who for 18 years has represented Illinois in the U.S. Senate, has taken up the political challenge of a former student.

Sen. Douglas heard Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey tell 2,000 Democrats at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Friday night that they must "press, beg, wheedle, persuade, cajole and draft," the Senate veteran into his fourth campaign.

Douglas, who had said he wanted a campaign war chest deposited in a bank before he committed himself and who in any event wasn't expected to make an announcement of his intentions as the Democratic candidate until next month, hesitated no longer.

He said yes, he would run, "if the Democratic party wants me to be its candidate."

The 2,000 Democrats roared their approval.

Thus the craggy-faced, silver-thatched Douglas, who will be 74 in March, plunged into a race with industrialist Percy, 46, who lost his first political contest to Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner.

So far Douglas and Percy have had nothing but praise for each other.

"Charles Percy is an able and attractive man," said Sen. Douglas, shortly after Percy announced his candidacy Dec. 18. "Whoever is the Democratic candidate will have a worthy and honorable opponent."

Percy, who said he had entered the race "for the health of the two-party system," said of Douglas: "My expected opponent is a man whom I know well, beginning with our student-professor relationship many years ago. He is a man of courage and conviction. He will be a strong opponent."

In 1948, as a University of Chicago economics professor, whose only political experience had been gained as a Chicago city alderman, Douglas stumped vigorously for the Senate seat of the late Republican Sen. C. Wayland Brooks.

He captured the seat again in 1954, and won it for a third time in 1960.

UMW Board Fails Again To Select Vice President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive board of the United Mine Workers union has failed for the fourth straight day to select a new vice president.

The board has been meeting in Washington this week, and each day it was expected to make a decision.

A spokesman said the matter might be handled today.

In the running are Joe Yablonski, president of District 5 in western Pennsylvania; Harrison Combs, assistant director of the union's legal department; John M. Kmetz of Nanticoke, Pa., director of the union; and George Titler, head of District 29 in Beckley, W.Va.

The job is considered a stepping stone to the presidency, now held by W. A. (Tony) Boyle.

At its session Friday, the board criticized the Department of Interior for authorizing an increase in residual oil imports.

In a resolution, it said the decision was a mockery, a cruel blow to miners and a danger to national security.

Senior Citizens Plan For Spring

Several trips during the spring were discussed at a meeting of the East Liverpool Senior Citizens Group Thursday afternoon at the parish house of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

The sunshine committee reported a number of members sick at home and in the hospital. The meeting opened with the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, flag salute and the singing of "America."

The corsage was received by Mrs. Ethel Johnson.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

Douglas Accepts Political Challenge Of Ex-Student

CHICAGO (AP) — Paul H. Douglas, a one-time professor of economics who for 18 years has represented Illinois in the U.S. Senate, has taken up the political challenge of a former student.

Sen. Douglas heard Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey tell 2,000 Democrats at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Friday night that they must "press, beg, wheedle, persuade, cajole and draft," the Senate veteran into his fourth campaign.

Douglas, who had said he wanted a campaign war chest deposited in a bank before he committed himself and who in any event wasn't expected to make an announcement of his intentions as the Democratic candidate until next month, hesitated no longer.

He said yes, he would run, "if the Democratic party wants me to be its candidate."

The 2,000 Democrats roared their approval.

Thus the craggy-faced, silver-thatched Douglas, who will be 74 in March, plunged into a race with industrialist Percy, 46, who lost his first political contest to Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner.

So far Douglas and Percy have had nothing but praise for each other.

"Charles Percy is an able and attractive man," said Sen. Douglas, shortly after Percy announced his candidacy Dec. 18. "Whoever is the Democratic candidate will have a worthy and honorable opponent."

Percy, who said he had entered the race "for the health of the two-party system," said of Douglas: "My expected opponent is a man whom I know well, beginning with our student-professor relationship many years ago. He is a man of courage and conviction. He will be a strong opponent."

In 1948, as a University of Chicago economics professor, whose only political experience had been gained as a Chicago city alderman, Douglas stumped vigorously for the Senate seat of the late Republican Sen. C. Wayland Brooks.

He captured the seat again in 1954, and won it for a third time in 1960.

Forensic League Planned Again For Oak Glen High

For the third straight year, Oak Glen High School will form a Forensic League to compete with other West Virginia high schools in debate and oratory, E. Russell Slack, principal, announced today.

Preparations are being completed for debating the question, "What Policy In Labor-Management Relations Will Best Serve The People Of The United States?" From 25 contesting students, a team of three will be chosen — two to debate the affirmative and negative of the question and one to act as a standby.

Oak Glen is a member of Region I of the West Virginia Interscholastic Forensic League, which is comprised of Hancock, Brooke, Marshall, Ohio, Tyler and Wetzel counties.

A regional elimination debate will be held early in March, with the two winning teams qualifying to compete in the state tournament at West Virginia University on March 31-April 2, Slack said.

Oak Glen was the winner in this tournament last year and competed in the finals at the university.

Also, a student will be chosen to represent Oak Glen in the regional contest in oratory. In this competition, a student may prepare and deliver a public address of his own choosing, or may select a speech taken from a significant oration of our time.

Three members of this group will be chosen as winners in the 29th annual national high school oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion.

Each contestant will prepare an oration on some phase of "Our Constitution". Chester American Legion Post 121 will award the first - place winner $25 and a gold medal; the second - place winner $15 and a silver medal, and the third-place winner $10 and a bronze medal.

The winner of Oak Glen's contest will participate in a district contest Feb. 19-26. Don Riedel of McMechen will be district tournament chairman.

The winner of the district contest will be awarded a scholarship to any of 11 colleges in West Virginia and the right to compete in the state tournament. State winners will compete in a national contest offering scholarship awards of $4,000, $1,000 and $500.

In addition, the state winner will receive a cash award of $100 and second- and third-place winners cash awards of $50 each.

Commissioners In Hancock Back 'Action' Program

The Hancock County commissioners have endorsed the county's Community Action program following a request from Ronald Wilson, Weirton attorney representing the action council, at their meeting Thursday in the Courthouse at New Cumberland.

It was announced that a meeting of the West Virginia Association of County Officials will be held Jan. 24-26 in Charleston. The county clerk, tax assessor, circuit clerk and sheriff were given permission to attend, along with assistants.

Arthur Recht, president of the Hancock County Bar Association, requested that the court reconsider appointments of commissioners of accounts made during the Jan. 4 meeting. Due to the absence of Commissioner William Graham because of illness, the matter was tabled until next Wednesday at 2 p.m., when a special meeting will be held.

Children's Home bills were approved for payment.

Sens. Young, Gruenin Urge Viet Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. senators have called for an immediate cease - fire in Viet Nam and withdrawal of U.S. military forces.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, and Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, urged the withdrawal in speeches in the Senate Friday after both lauded peace efforts by President Johnson.

Young said the efforts were not enough, adding there would be "no loss of face if we withdrew from this miserable war."

Tax Office's Administration Returned To City Treasurer

Council gave final approval Friday night to legislation returning to Treasurer Bert A. Dawson the responsibility for administration of the city income tax office.

The ordinance contains an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor George E. Willshaw. It amends a 1964 ordinance in which the former Council sought to give the tax office job to Auditor Lawrence Zollinger. The auditor refused to accept the task, citing various court rulings, opinions of the Ohio attorney general's office and a ruling by solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

WITH SIX affirmative votes required for immediate passage, the legislation moved through only the first of three required readings when it was presented at a special meeting last Monday night. The vote was 5-1, with Councilman Frank Duffy and Councilman Floyd Murray absent.

Murray last night reiterated his opposition to the measure, repeating arguments he made a year ago, but voted for suspension of the rules so that the legislation could be given final passage.

"I voted for suspension of the rules because I know this legislation will be passed, regardless," Murray commented. "Since I already have explained my opposition to it, I did not think it was necessary to force Council to sit through another reading of this lengthy ordinance."

Duffy was absent at last night's special session. Supporting the measure were Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson, James Lowe, Harold Maylone, Robert W. Sample and Norman Bucher.

WHEN THE income tax ordinance was renewed late in 1964, the former Council stipulated that Zollinger would be in charge of the administration instead of Dawson.

At the first meeting in 1965, Zollinger notified Council personally that he would not assume the responsibilities, citing various legal authorities for his refusal.

In February of last year, the former Council gave first reading to the ordinance restoring the tax office administration to Dawson. Then it was held up pending a ruling from Atty. Gen. William Saxbe on the alleged incompatibility of the auditor's post and the tax office duties. It never was brought onto the floor again in that biennium.

The measure was revived Jan. 7 when Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson sent letters to each member of the new Council citing the "snarl" in administration which had resulted. Since the department had no legal administrative authority, a clerical vacancy could not be filled, he said. Wilkinson said the office's collections might suffer in 1966 for lack of a full staff.

THE AMENDMENT approved by Council amounts to a repetition of about 10 lengthy sections of the tax ordinance, substituting the words "city treasurer" in every place where the original legislation read "city auditor."

Murray was the only member to comment before the legislation was passed. In addition to explaining his vote, he said:

"This legislation came up last January or February. Cooper placed the income tax in the auditor's hands, the way it is handled in 60 per cent of the cities in Ohio. With the auditor on a full-time basis, I feel he could take care of the tax office and we could do away with the supervisor. That would save the city $5,000 a year that is being wasted now. I still feel it should be handled by the auditor's office and that they don't need that much help in the tax office."

Wilkinson is the supervisor to whom Murray referred. He is directly in charge of the tax office, responsible to Dawson.

6th Youth Fined In Sign Defacing

LISBON — The last of six Salineville youths charged with defacing a traffic sign Friday received in Southwest Area County Court a fine identical to those of his five companions.

Charles Vincent Barnes, 20, was fined $20 after pleading guilty before Judge J. L. MacDonald. In addition, the judge ordered Barnes to pay $10 extra to help defray costs of replacing the sign.

Robert N. Miller of Minerva R.D. 2 received a 30-day suspended sentence and a fine of $25 on an assault and battery charge. The judge said he was suspending the sentence on condition that Miller be "of good behavior."

7 More Held At Columbus In Dope Raid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Seven persons — including an Ohio State University English instructor and three students — were arrested in a raid on a university area apartment late Friday, raising to 23 the number of persons arrested in a widespread investigation into narcotics activity.

Police vice squadmen said "traces" of marijuana were found in three rooms of the apartment of an Ohio State junior in the latest of several raids here, in Akron and in Indianapolis, Ind., throughout the week. They estimated the total amount found at less than an ounce.

Seventeen of the arrests have been made in Columbus, five in the Akron area and one in Indianapolis. To date, at least four of those arrested are Ohio State students, two Kent State students, two former OSU students and the OSU teaching assistant. Another is a state welfare department employe.

Vice Squad Sgt. Tom Waters said all seven told him they saw nothing wrong in what they did and that what they did in their own homes was their own business.

Forensic League Planned Again For Oak Glen High

For the third straight year, Oak Glen High School will form a Forensic League to compete with other West Virginia high schools in debate and oratory, E. Russell Slack, principal, announced today.

Preparations are being completed for debating the question, "What Policy In Labor-Management Relations Will Best Serve The People Of The United States?" From 25 contesting students, a team of three will be chosen — two to debate the affirmative and negative of the question and one to act as a standby.

Oak Glen is a member of Region I of the West Virginia Interscholastic Forensic League, which is comprised of Hancock, Brooke, Marshall, Ohio, Tyler and Wetzel counties.

A regional elimination debate will be held early in March, with the two winning teams qualifying to compete in the state tournament at West Virginia University on March 31-April 2, Slack said.

Oak Glen was the winner in this tournament last year and competed in the finals at the university.

Also, a student will be chosen to represent Oak Glen in the regional contest in oratory. In this competition, a student may prepare and deliver a public address of his own choosing, or may select a speech taken from a significant oration of our time.

Three members of this group will be chosen as winners in the 29th annual national high school oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion.

Each contestant will prepare an oration on some phase of "Our Constitution". Chester American Legion Post 121 will award the first - place winner $25 and a gold medal; the second - place winner $15 and a silver medal, and the third-place winner $10 and a bronze medal.

The winner of Oak Glen's contest will participate in a district contest Feb. 19-26. Don Riedel of McMechen will be district tournament chairman.

The winner of the district contest will be awarded a scholarship to any of 11 colleges in West Virginia and the right to compete in the state tournament. State winners will compete in a national contest offering scholarship awards of $4,000, $1,000 and $500.

In addition, the state winner will receive a cash award of $100 and second- and third-place winners cash awards of $50 each.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. senators have called for an immediate cease - fire in Viet Nam and withdrawal of U.S. military forces.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, and Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, urged the withdrawal in speeches in the Senate Friday after both lauded peace efforts by President Johnson.

Young said the efforts were not enough, adding there would be "no loss of face if we withdrew from this miserable war."

Tax Office's Administration Returned To City Treasurer

Council gave final approval Friday night to legislation returning to Treasurer Bert A. Dawson the responsibility for administration of the city income tax office.

The ordinance contains an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor George E. Willshaw. It amends a 1964 ordinance in which the former Council sought to give the tax office job to Auditor Lawrence Zollinger. The auditor refused to accept the task, citing various court rulings, opinions of the Ohio attorney general's office and a ruling by solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

WITH SIX affirmative votes required for immediate passage, the legislation moved through only the first of three required readings when it was presented at a special meeting last Monday night. The vote was 5-1, with Councilman Frank Duffy and Councilman Floyd Murray absent.

Murray last night reiterated his opposition to the measure, repeating arguments he made a year ago, but voted for suspension of the rules so that the legislation could be given final passage.

"I voted for suspension of the rules because I know this legislation will be passed, regardless," Murray commented. "Since I already have explained my opposition to it, I did not think it was necessary to force Council to sit through another reading of this lengthy ordinance."

Duffy was absent at last night's special session. Supporting the measure were Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson, James Lowe, Harold Maylone, Robert W. Sample and Norman Bucher.

WHEN THE income tax ordinance was renewed late in 1964, the former Council stipulated that Zollinger would be in charge of the administration instead of Dawson.

At the first meeting in 1965, Zollinger notified Council personally that he would not assume the responsibilities, citing various legal authorities for his refusal.

In February of last year, the former Council gave first reading to the ordinance restoring the tax office administration to Dawson. Then it was held up pending a ruling from Atty. Gen. William Saxbe on the alleged incompatibility of the auditor's post and the tax office duties. It never was brought onto the floor again in that biennium.

The measure was revived Jan. 7 when Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson sent letters to each member of the new Council citing the "snarl" in administration which had resulted. Since the department had no legal administrative authority, a clerical vacancy could not be filled, he said. Wilkinson said the office's collections might suffer in 1966 for lack of a full staff.

THE AMENDMENT approved by Council amounts to a repetition of about 10 lengthy sections of the tax ordinance, substituting the words "city treasurer" in every place where the original legislation read "city auditor."

Murray was the only member to comment before the legislation was passed. In addition to explaining his vote, he said:

"This legislation came up last January or February. Cooper placed the income tax in the auditor's hands, the way it is handled in 60 per cent of the cities in Ohio. With the auditor on a full-time basis, I feel he could take care of the tax office and we could do away with the supervisor. That would save the city $5,000 a year that is being wasted now. I still feel it should be handled by the auditor's office and that they don't need that much help in the tax office."

Wilkinson is the supervisor to whom Murray referred. He is directly in charge of the tax office, responsible to Dawson.

Winters Nets 27 In Losing Effort

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The seventh defeat of the season may go down as the most disappointing one for Coach Frank Chan, who clearly was upset over his team's performance after a 62-61 loss to Steubenville Big Red Friday night at the Community Arena.

Both teams were guilty of numerous mistakes, including erratic passing and overall shabby basketball. The combined turnovers finally proved the Potters' downfall since both teams were even in about every other category.

"There was no excuse for losing that one," Chan said following the game. "we just gave it away."

THE POTTERS were in a good position to win their third of the season when an eight-point spurt put them in front by seven points midway through the third period. The Blue and White led by nine later in the same quarter, but couldn't protect the margin.

East Liverpool will take to the road again tonight, invading the South High Fieldhouse to meet Youngstown South. While the Potters show a 2-7 record, South remains winless in eight games after losing 83-57 to Youngstown Rayen last night. Tonight's varsity game will start about 8.

IN DEFEAT, Chuck Winters turned in the top scoring performance by a Potter this season when, the 6-foot senior pumping in 27 points.

Winters hit more than 50 per cent, netting 12 of 22 shots and three of five fouls. He had entered the game averaging slightly over 16 points per game.

Winters scored 10 points and Vern Smith nine in a third period which put the Potters in front 52-49 after they had trailed 30-29 at halftime.

SMITH repeated what had happened in the loss to Akron East last week. Following a brilliant third quarter, he fouled out with 5:27 remaining in the game last night after helping to put his team on top.

The Potters were pressed by Steubenville and had trouble putting the ball in play, losing it several times from out of bounds.

The final statistics show the game was decided at the foul line, both teams ending with 24 goals. Big Red made 14 of 22 fouls and the Potters 13 of 22.

SHOOTING averages also were close, with the Potters hitting 24 of 66 for 36 per cent and Big Red 24 of 72 for 33 per cent.

The Potters, sparked by Winters' eight points, led all the way through the first period until the closing minute when sharpshooting Don Osby, a 6-1 sophomore, scored seven straight points, closing the period with a three-point play to put Big Red in front, 22-21.

The score see-sawed in a dismal second period that saw East Liverpool score only eight points and remain behind 30-29 at halftime.

WITH Winters and Smith pouring in points, East Liverpool pulled in front at the end of the third quarter, 52-49. During the period, the Potters put together eight consecutive points with a goal by Vern Smith, two by Winters and one by Denny Smith. The spurt took them from 36-35 behind to 43-36 in front.

Later in the period, after a foul and a bucket by Vern Smith, East Liverpool led 50-41, but Glen Hardney, who had come off the bench, scored three straight buckets to whittle the lead to 52-49 as the third quarter closed. Harney hit for 10 points in the third frame.

THE SCORE was tied twice in the fourth period at 55-55 and 57-57, but with 3:49 to go Osby put Big Red in front to stay with a field goal.

Hardney dropped in a foul with 1:07 left, which later proved the winning margin and Bill Carter tipped in two points for the Potters with 52 seconds to go to end the scoring.

EAST Liverpool got two more shots at the basket, but missed both, the last one a desperation heave by Denny Smith from midcourt which came close but bounded away at the buzzer.

Vern Smith followed Winters in scoring with 14 points, while Darryl Herring added 10. Smith played only about half of the game.

Larry Stubbs paced Big Red with 17, including 12 in the first half. Osby and Hardney each wound up with 15.

Baseball's MVP Picks Are Due Healthy Raise

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Baseball's Most Valuable Players of 1965 are due healthy pay raises. The only question is, how much?

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, already making $105,000, says he wouldn't mind signing for $150,000, but gives the impression he'll settle for a good bit less.

Zoilo Versalles of the Minnesota Twins, a virtual newcomer to the super-star class, is demanding that his $28,000 salary of last season be increased to $50,000.

The two stars were given awards at the 13th annual Tops in Sports banquet Friday night, and both not-so-subtly inserted pay raise plugs into their acceptance speeches.

Versalles who led the Twins to an American League pennant with a .273 average, 77 runs batted in and fine fielding. But he faces tough negotiations with club president Calvin Griffith because of the big boost he seeks.

Mays slugged 52 homers, drove in 112 runs and hit .317 on the way to his second MVP award. And if that's not enough, the Giants seem intent on making Willie the highest paid player in baseball history.

"I'm going to see Calvin Monday," Versalles said before the banquet. "He offered me $38,000, but I want $50,000. I figure being most valuable is automatically worth $20,000.

"Other players on the team are making more than me. If they don't want to pay me, they can trade me for the pitcher they need."

Asked if Griffith was a hard negotiator, Versalles said, "He's showing me his nails."

Later, after reading the inscription on his plaque, Zoilo told the audience, "I'm going to make Calvin read this."

Mays fended off questions about published reports which guessed his 1966 salary would range between $115,000 and $150,000. Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney of the Giants said the record $125,000 Ted Williams was supposed to have received may have been high, "but regardless, Willie will probably top all past figures."

"If you newspaper men think I'm worth $150,000, write it up, and I'll accept it if they give it to me," he said. Mays noted football rookies were getting $400,000 to $600,000 to sign, and added, "I'll settle for my little $150,000 if I can get it."

"Sir, you can laugh," Willie said. "But I mean this."

Winters Nets 27 In Losing Effort

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The seventh defeat of the season may go down as the most disappointing one for Coach Frank Chan, who clearly was upset over his team's performance after a 62-61 loss to Steubenville Big Red Friday night at the Community Arena.

Both teams were guilty of numerous mistakes, including erratic passing and overall shabby basketball. The combined turnovers finally proved the Potters' downfall since both teams were even in about every other category.

"There was no excuse for losing that one," Chan said following the game, "we just gave it away."

THE POTTERS were in a good position to win their third of the season when an eight-point spurt put them in front by seven points midway through the third period. The Blue and White led by nine later in the same quarter, but couldn't protect the margin.

East Liverpool will take to the road again tonight, invading the South High Fieldhouse to meet Youngstown South. While the Potters show a 2-7 record, South remains winless in eight games after losing 83-57 to Youngstown Rayen last night. Tonight's varsity game will start about 8.

IN DEFEAT, Chuck Winters turned in the top scoring performance by a Potter this season when, the 6-foot senior pumping in 27 points.

Winters hit more than 50 per cent, netting 12 of 22 shots and three of five fouls. He had entered the game averaging slightly over 16 points per game.

Winters scored 10 points and Vern Smith nine in a third period which put the Potters in front 52-49 after they had trailed 30-29 at halftime.

SMITH repeated what had happened in the loss to Akron East last week. Following a brilliant third quarter, he fouled out with 5:27 remaining in the game last night after helping to put his team on top.

The Potters were pressed by Steubenville and had trouble putting the ball in play, losing it several times from out of bounds.

The final statistics show the game was decided at the foul line, both teams ending with 24 goals. Big Red made 14 of 22 fouls and the Potters 13 of 22.

SHOOTING averages also were close, with the Potters hitting 24 of 66 for 36 per cent and Big Red 24 of 72 for 33 per cent.

The Potters, sparked by Winters' eight points, led all the way through the first period until the closing minute when sharpshooting Don Osby, a 6-1 sophomore, scored seven straight points, closing the period with a three-point play to put Big Red in front, 22-21.

The score see-sawed in a dismal second period that saw East Liverpool score only eight points and remain behind 30-29 at halftime.

WITH Winters and Smith pouring in points, East Liverpool pulled in front at the end of the third quarter, 52-49. During the period, the Potters put together eight consecutive points with a goal by Vern Smith, two by Winters and one by Denny Smith. The spurt took them from 36-35 behind to 43-36 in front.

Later in the period, after a foul and a bucket by Vern Smith, East Liverpool led 50-41, but Glen Hardney, who had come off the bench, scored three straight buckets to whittle the lead to 52-49 as the third quarter closed. Harney hit for 10 points in the third frame.

THE SCORE was tied twice in the fourth period at 55-55 and 57-57, but with 3:49 to go Osby put Big Red in front to stay with a field goal.

Hardney dropped in a foul with 1:07 left, which later proved the winning margin and Bill Carter tipped in two points for the Potters with 52 seconds to go to end the scoring.

EAST Liverpool got two more shots at the basket, but missed both, the last one a desperation heave by Denny Smith from midcourt which came close but bounded away at the buzzer.

Vern Smith followed Winters in scoring with 14 points, while Darryl Herring added 10. Smith played only about half of the game.

Baseball's MVP Picks Are Due Healthy Raise

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Baseball's Most Valuable Players of 1965 are due healthy pay raises. The only question is, how much?

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, already making $105,000, says he wouldn't mind signing for $150,000, but gives the impression he'll settle for a good bit less.

Zoilo Versalles of the Minnesota Twins, a virtual newcomer to the super-star class, is demanding that his $28,000 salary of last season be increased to $50,000.

The two stars were given awards at the 13th annual Tops in Sports banquet Friday night, and both not-so-subtly inserted pay raise plugs into their acceptance speeches.

Versalles who led the Twins to an American League pennant with a .273 average, 77 runs batted in and fine fielding. But he faces tough negotiations with club president Calvin Griffith because of the big boost he seeks.

Mays slugged 52 homers, drove in 112 runs and hit .317 on the way to his second MVP award. And if that's not enough, the Giants seem intent on making Willie the highest paid player in baseball history.

"I'm going to see Calvin Monday," Versalles said before the banquet. "He offered me $38,000, but I want $50,000. I figure being most valuable is automatically worth $20,000.

"Other players on the team are making more than me. If they don't want to pay me, they can trade me for the pitcher they need."

Asked if Griffith was a hard negotiator, Versalles said, "He's showing me his nails."

Later, after reading the inscription on his plaque, Zoilo told the audience, "I'm going to make Calvin read this."

Mays fended off questions about published reports which guessed his 1966 salary would range between $115,000 and $150,000. Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney of the Giants said the record $125,000 Ted Williams was supposed to have received may have been high, "but regardless, Willie will probably top all past figures."

"If you newspaper men think I'm worth $150,000, write it up, and I'll accept it if they give it to me," he said. Mays noted football rookies were getting $400,000 to $600,000 to sign, and added, "I'll settle for my little $150,000 if I can get it."

"Sir, you can laugh," Willie said. "But I mean this."

Southern Posts 74-67 Win Over Stubborn Crestview

Apparently suffering a letdown after pulling a major upset over Toronto, Southern Local squeezed by a game Crestview team, 74-67, Friday night on the Southern court.

Coach Al Girone's team was off from the field. Southern put up 81 shots and made 23 for a poor 28 per cent.

John McCord dropped in 18 points, Gene Goddard added 16 and Dwain McKenzie 14 to pace Southern. McCord also turned in a fine defensive game and came up with seven key steals.

Randy McBride, who has been adding some punch to the Crestview offense lately, scored 17 points and tied for honors with Bill Kress.

Monaca Ends Midland's Section 8 Win Streak, 39-38

By JOHN COMO
Review Sports Writer

Monaca thwarted a last - minute gamble by visiting Midland Friday night and gained sole possession of first place in WPIAL Section 8 with 39-38 verdict.

The Indians, the last section foe to top Midland in 1961, halted a 31-game league winning streak by the Leopards.

MONACA, 3-0, in league action, is riding the crest of a 10-game spree and sports an overall 11-1 mark.

Midland fell to 2-1 in league competition and 10-4 over all.

After taking an early 4-2 lead, the Leopards played comeback ball most of the contest as the Indians built a seven-point advantage in the second and held a nine - point margin early the third period.

WITH playmaking guards Bill Zopf and Terry Evans leading the way, the Indians led 22-17 at halftime and raised it to 26-17 at the seven - minute mark of the third before the Leopards started to rally.

Zopf paced the individual scoring with 16 markers and Evans contributed 12.

Brent Lake started the rally for Midland by popping in a set from the side that was followed by a short jumper by Bob Clark, a surprise started who paced Midland with 11 points, to narrow the margin to 26-21 at the 5:53 mark of the third.

Zopf hit on a one-shot foul to return the lead to Monaca, 29-28, and then Jeff Lake gave the Leopards their first lead since early in the first quarter, 30-29, at the 2:25 mark.

RUDICH countered Lake's score and Monaca led, 31-30, entering the fourth period.

Gary Podolak of Monaca and Mahurt of Midland exchanged foul shots to open the fourth before the Indians' scoring twins, Zopf and Evans gave them a four - point lead, 35-31. Zopf broke loose for a layup and Evans hit on a one-shot free throw.

With 4:28 left, Clark scored the second of a two - shot charity toss and Brent Lake followed with a goal and two free throws as Midland gained its last lead, 38-37, with 2:47 left.

The ball changed possession twice in the next minute of action on turnovers and Midland coach Hank Kuzma ordered a timeout with 1:28 remaining.

Instructed to gamble for the sure - shot, Midland worked the ball trying for an opening until 0:21 showed on the clock and as Midland found it tough to Kuzma ordered another timeout.

THIS TIME, the Leopards worked the ball to Mahurt who fired a jump shot from the right of the key that hit the back of the rim and bounced to the center of the foul lane. Mahurt scrambled for the rebound and with eight seconds left fired again and missed.

Clark tipped the ball out to Jeff Lake, who tried to hit on a one-hand set shot that was blocked by Evans.

Zopf gained control of the blocked ball and dribbled out the remaining four seconds to secure Monaca's victory.

A three - two zone defense proved an effective weapon for Coach Otto Pritchard's Indians penetrate most of the contest and failed to hit effectively from long range.

THE LEOPARDS connected on 15 of 54 shots for 27 per cent.

Monaca shot 41 per cent, goaling the same number of baskets in 39 tries.

Both teams had 12 foul tosses, with the Indians gaining a 9-8 edge.

Evans, 5-11 guard, controlled 9 rebounds for Monaca and Zopf, 6-0, guard, grabbed 6.

Monaca captured the reserve contest, 53-47 as Kirk Olich paced the win with 14 points. Dave Vanlier tallied 17 in the losing cause for Midland.

Symons Tops Conference Win With 24 Markers; Roberts Hits 22

Beaver Local couldn't quite catch up to Toronto which continued to remain on top in the Buckeye Border Conference with the Beavers following a 71-63 victory Friday night on the Beaver court.

Toronto's Dick Symons was impressive in the victory as the 6-4 pivot man slipped in 24 points to lead all scorers.

Weil, 75, Former Baseball Figure, Car Dealer Claimed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Sidney Weil, 75 who spent part of the fortune he had made as an automobile dealer in the 1920s in a four - year effort to shore up the Cincinnati Reds Baseball Club, will be buried Sunday.

The insurance executive was pronounced dead Friday on arrival at General Hospital after a three-car crash here. He was owner of the team in 1929-33.

The coroner's office withheld ruling on the cause of death until receiving an autopsy report.

Weil took over the Reds after buying stock on the open market. The Reds had been slipping for three seasons after finishing second in 1926.

The new owner—he took over just weeks before the stock market crash — hired Daniel Howley as manager to replace Jack Hendricks and — as old sportswriters recall — raised everybody's salary.

He also spent a lot of money buying big-time stars from other clubs, but nothing helped. The Reds finished seventh in 1930, eighth in the next three seasons before Weil sold the club to industrialist Powel Crosley Jr. and filed bankruptcy. Then he went back to selling cars.

In 1937, Weil became an insurance salesman. He remained active in that field and was honored two years ago for having sold more than $1 million worth of insurance in 23 consecutive years.

Weil's survivors include his widow, a son and two daughters.

Georgia Tech Aide Named To WVU Post

By STRAT DOUTHAT
Associated Press Sports Writer

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — (AP) — Jim Carlen's first look at West Virginia football came 12 years ago when he was a member of the Georgia Tech team that humiliated the Mountaineers 42-19 in the Sugar Bowl.

Carlan came to WVU from Georgia Tech, where he spent six years on Coach Bobby Dodd's staff. He was picked over more than 70 applicants.

But Carlen wasn't an applicant for the job. Instead, he had applied for the head coaching post at Duke University when contacted by West Virginia officials.

"I decided to come to West Virginia because I was impressed with President Paul Miller and with other officials with whom I talked," he said at a press conference Friday.

Carlen said he was first interviewed last week, but wasn't offered the job until Thursday night. He accepted on the spot but didn't officially become the head coach until Friday when the WVU athletic Board approved him.

Carlen's salary was not revealed, but it was estimated at about $16,000 a year. In accordance with university policy, he took the job on a year-to-year basis.

Many observers felt Corum's resignation from his $14,000 a year job came because President Miller was displeased with the off-field conduct and supervision of the players.

2 Youngsters Setting Pace At San Diego

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The youth movement was in full swing today in the $40,000 San Diego Open Golf tournament as a pair of 26-year-old professionals, newcomers to prominence, Paul Bondeson and Chris Blocker, ran 1-2 into the third round.

Blocker, from Jal N.M., was a stroke back with 65-68—133.

There is a resemblance between the two golfers: neither has ever won an important tournament. Both are blonds, six feet or over. They are roommates this week at the tournament headquarters, the Stardust Country Club.

There is one difference. Bondeson is married and has two youngsters while Blocker is still a bachelor.

Another pair of relatively young players remained in the picture. They were Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex., and Harold Kneece of Aiken, S.C., who were tied at 135.

Hunter Killed, Two Hurt In Plane Crash

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP)—A light plane carrying three homeward - bound hunters crashed within sight of Lynchburg Airport Friday. The pilot died. His companions were critically hurt.

The Federal Aviation Agency today was conducting an investigation into the crash that claimed the life of Dr. Joseph O. Porter, 69, a surgeon of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Critically injured were Dr. Porter's son-in-law, Ernie Elam, 40, also of Cincinnati, and James Holmes, 53, vice president of the Fort Hill Pharmacy here.

Farm land is now valued at an average of $146 an acre, an increase of 6 per cent over last year, the Department of Agriculture reports. The average value of an American farm is $52,200.

West Is Favored By 7 In Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the Pro Bowl — the National Football League's annual East-West post season test — it's not uncommon to be carried from the field. The question Sunday is whether the West's All-Stars plan to come in that way.

He said that two starting question marks — flanker Jimmy Orr of Baltimore and defensive tackle Alex Karras of Detroit Lions had both overcome recent injuries.

The East squad, coached by Blanton Collier of Cleveland, has had no injuries — except for tackle Dick Schafrath whose leg has not recovered from a jolt he received playing for the Cleveland Browns in the championship game against Green Bay.

The St. Louis Cardinals' Ernie McMillan will start for Schafrath.

"It can't be that West personnel are that much better, because basically we're all equal. Every team is capable of beating another. I hope we can prove it Sunday."

With Ryan in the East Backfield will be Cleveland teammate Jim Brown at fullback; Charley Taylor of Washington at halfback and another Brown, Gary Collins at flanker.

In the West backfield will be Orr, San Francisco's John Brodie at quarterback and two rookies, Chicago halfback Gale Sayers and fullback Ken Willard, also of San Francisco.

Western Penna. Produces Another In Star Category

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Question: what do Joe Namath, Harold Jeter and Freddie Lewis have in common?

Namath, of Beaver Falls, became the star quarterback at the University of Alabama and later signed for $400,000 to play for the New York Jets of the American Football League. Jeter and Lewis, still undergraduates, have made their mark in college basketball.

Jeter, of Aliquippa, paced Drake to an upset 75-66 victory over fifth-ranked Bradley with 21 points Thursday night. Lewis, of McKeesport, threw in 32 points Friday night to lead Arizona State to a 79-78 overtime triumph over Southern Illinois at Tempen Ariz.

Lewis, a 6-foot senior who won the Sparkplug Award at ASU last season, brought the Sun Devils from behind in the last two minutes of regulation time with a three-pointer and put them ahead to stay with 90 seconds left in the extra period with a 20-foot jump shot. Lewis scored 16 of Arizona State's last 19 points.

UCLA, ninth-ranked in the AP major college poll, made it seven in a row and 10-3 for the season with a 75-66 victory over California at Berkeley. Mike Lynn's 25 points paced the victorious Bruins, whose last defeat was inflicted by Cincinnati in Los Angeles a month ago. The other teams in The AP Top Ten were idle.

Stanford downed Southern California 73-64, Oregon whipped Washington 71-62, Oregon State beat Washington State 68-52 and San Francisco overcame Los Angeles Loyola 97-66 in other games on the West Coast. All were home court victories.

Columbia stayed on top in the Ivy League by defeating Brown 84-50. Princeton whipped Dartmouth 74-52 and Penn trimmed Harvard 86-65 to remain half a game behind the Lions in league play. These, too, were all home court triumphs.

Hofstra upset New York University 77-75 at Hempstead, N.Y.

Monaca Ends Midland's Section 8 Win Streak, 39-38

By JOHN COMO
Review Sports Writer

Monaca thwarted a last - minute gamble by visiting Midland Friday night and gained sole possession of first place in WPIAL Section 8 with 39-38 verdict.

The Indians, the last section foe to top Midland in 1961, halted a 31-game league winning streak by the Leopards.

MONACA, 3-0, in league action, is riding the crest of a 10-game spree and sports an overall 11-1 mark.

Midland fell to 2-1 in league competition and 10-4 over all.

After taking an early 4-2 lead, the Leopards played comeback ball most of the contest as the Indians built a seven-point advantage in the second and held a nine - point margin early the third period.

WITH playmaking guards Bill Zopf and Terry Evans leading the way, the Indians led 22-17 at halftime and raised it to 26-17 at the seven - minute mark of the third before the Leopards started to rally.

Zopf paced the individual scoring with 16 markers and Evans contributed 12.

Brent Lake started the rally for Midland by popping in a set from the side that was followed by a short jumper by Bob Clark, a surprise starter who paced Midland with 11 points, to narrow the margin to 26-21 at the 5:53 mark of the third.

Zopf hit on a one-shot foul to return the lead to Monaca, 29-28, and then Jeff Lake gave the Leopards their first lead since early in the first quarter, 30-29, at the 2:25 mark.

RUDICH countered Lake's score and Monaca led, 31-30, entering the fourth period.

Gary Podolak of Monaca and Mahurt of Midland exchanged foul shots to open the fourth before the Indians' scoring twins, Zopf and Evans gave them a four - point lead, 35-31. Zopf broke loose for a layup and Evans hit on a one-shot free throw.

With 4:28 left, Clark scored the second of a two - shot charity toss and Brent Lake followed with a goal and two free throws as Midland gained its last lead, 38-37, with 2:47 left.

Instructed to gamble for the sure - shot, Midland worked the ball trying for an opening until 0:21 showed on the clock and as Midland found it tough to Kuzma ordered another timeout.

THIS TIME, the Leopards worked the ball to Mahurt who fired a jump shot from the right of the key that hit the back of the rim and bounced to the center of the foul lane. Mahurt scrambled for the rebound and with eight seconds left fired again and missed.

Clark tipped the ball out to Jeff Lake, who tried to hit on a one-hand set shot that was blocked by Evans.

A three - two zone defense proved an effective weapon for Coach Otto Pritchard's Indians penetrate most of the contest and failed to hit effectively from long range.

THE LEOPARDS connected on 15 of 54 shots for 27 per cent.

Monaca shot 41 per cent, goaling the same number of baskets in 39 tries.

Both teams had 12 foul tosses, with the Indians gaining a 9-8 edge.

Evans, 5-11 guard, controlled 9 rebounds for Monaca and Zopf, 6-0, guard, grabbed 6.

Monaca captured the reserve contest, 53-47 as Kirk Olich paced the win with 14 points. Dave Vanlier tallied 17 in the losing cause for Midland.

Toronto Stays Step Ahead Of Beavers In 71-63 Verdict

Beaver Local couldn't quite catch up to Toronto which continued to remain on top in the Buckeye Border Conference with the Beavers following a 71-63 victory Friday night on the Beaver court.

The loss was the second straight for Beaver Local which had opened the season with seven victories in a row.

The defeat was the first in league play for Beaver Local while Toronto lost last week to Southern Local in a conference battle.

The two teams ended the first half with Coach John Pape's team still in front 32-25 while the Red Knights took a 52-43 advantage into the final eight minutes.

Toronto's Dick Symons was impressive in the victory as the 6-4 pivot man slipped in 24 points to lead all scorers.

LARRY ROBERTS, Beaver Local's leading scorer, almost matched Symons, hitting for 22 points. Roberts had 10 in the first half and the remainder in the last two periods.

Georgia Tech Aide Named To WVU Post

By STRAT DOUTHAT
Associated Press Sports Writer

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — (AP) — Jim Carlen's first look at West Virginia football came 12 years ago when he was a member of the Georgia Tech team that humiliated the Mountaineers 42-19 in the Sugar Bowl.

But he'd probably like to forget that victory now.

Carlen came to WVU from Georgia Tech, where he spent six years on Coach Bobby Dodd's staff. He was picked over more than 70 applicants.

But Carlen wasn't an applicant for the job. Instead, he had applied for the head coaching post at Duke University when contacted by West Virginia officials.

"I decided to come to West Virginia because I was impressed with President Paul Miller and with other officials with whom I talked," he said at a press conference Friday.

Carlen said he was first interviewed last week, but wasn't offered the job until Thursday night. He accepted on the spot but didn't officially become the head coach until Friday when the WVU athletic Board approved him.

Carlen's salary was not revealed, but it was estimated at about $16,000 a year. In accordance with university policy, he took the job on a year-to-year basis.

Many observers felt Corum's resignation from his $14,000 a year job came because President Miller was displeased with the off-field conduct and supervision of the players.

West Is Favored By 7 In Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the Pro Bowl — the National Football League's annual East-West post season test — it's not uncommon to be carried from the field. The question Sunday is whether the West's All-Stars plan to come in that way.

He said that two starting question marks — flanker Jimmy Orr of Baltimore and defensive tackle Alex Karras of Detroit Lions had both overcome recent injuries.

The East squad, coached by Blanton Collier of Cleveland, has had no injuries — except for tackle Dick Schafrath whose leg has not recovered from a jolt he received playing for the Cleveland Browns in the championship game against Green Bay.

The St. Louis Cardinals' Ernie McMillan will start for Schafrath.

Las Vegas bookmakers, paying respect to the West's 1-5 advantage in the classic, rate Lombardi's team a seven point favorite.

"It can't be that West personnel are that much better, because basically we're all equal. Every team is capable of beating another. I hope we can prove it Sunday."

With Ryan in the East Backfield will be Cleveland teammate Jim Brown at fullback; Charley Taylor of Washington at halfback and another Brown, Gary Collins at flanker.

In the West backfield will be Orr, San Francisco's John Brodie at quarterback and two rookies, Chicago halfback Gale Sayers and fullback Ken Willard, also of San Francisco.

For Jimmy Brown and New York offensive tackle Roosevelt Brown, the game in Memorial Coliseum will be their ninth each.

Weil, 75, Former Baseball Figure, Car Dealer Claimed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Sidney Weil, 75 who spent part of the fortune he had made as an automobile dealer in the 1920s in a four - year effort to shore up the Cincinnati Reds Baseball Club, will be buried Sunday.

The insurance executive was pronounced dead Friday on arrival at General Hospital after a three-car crash here. He was owner of the team in 1929-33.

The coroner's office withheld ruling on the cause of death until receiving an autopsy report.

Weil took over the Reds after buying stock on the open market. The Reds had been slipping for three seasons after finishing second in 1926.

The new owner—he took over just weeks before the stock market crash — hired Daniel Howley as manager to replace Jack Hendricks and — as old sportswriters recall — raised everybody's salary.

He also spent a lot of money buying big-time stars from other clubs, but nothing helped. The Reds finished seventh in 1930, eighth in the next three seasons before Weil sold the club to industrialist Powel Crosley Jr. and filed bankruptcy. Then he went back to selling cars.

In 1937, Weil became an insurance salesman. He remained active in that field and was honored two years ago for having sold more than $1 million worth of insurance in 23 consecutive years.

Weil's survivors include his widow, a son and two daughters.

2 Youngsters Setting Pace At San Diego

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The youth movement was in full swing today in the $40,000 San Diego Open Golf tournament as a pair of 26-year-old professionals, newcomers to prominence, Paul Bondeson and Chris Blocker, ran 1-2 into the third round.

Blocker, from Jal N.M., was a stroke back with 65-68—133.

There is a resemblance between the two golfers: neither has ever won an important tournament. Both are blonds, six feet or over. They are roommates this week at the tournament headquarters, the Stardust Country Club.

There is one difference. Bondeson is married and has two youngsters while Blocker is still a bachelor.

Another pair of relatively young players remained in the picture. They were Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex., and Harold Kneece of Aiken, S.C., who were tied at 135.

The challenge from the older fellows came from varied sources.

Western Penna. Produces Another In Star Category

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Question: what do Joe Namath, Harold Jeter and Freddie Lewis have in common?

Namath, of Beaver Falls, became the star quarterback at the University of Alabama and later signed for $400,000 to play for the New York Jets of the American Football League. Jeter and Lewis, still undergraduates, have made their mark in college basketball.

Jeter, of Aliquippa, paced Drake to an upset 75-66 victory over fifth-ranked Bradley with 21 points Thursday night. Lewis, of McKeesport, threw in 32 points Friday night to lead Arizona State to a 79-78 overtime triumph over Southern Illinois at Tempen Ariz.

Lewis, a 6-foot senior who won the Sparkplug Award at ASU last season, brought the Sun Devils from behind in the last two minutes of regulation time with a three-pointer and put them ahead to stay with 90 seconds left in the extra period with a 20-foot jump shot. Lewis scored 16 of Arizona State's last 19 points.

UCLA, ninth-ranked in the AP major college poll, made it seven in a row and 10-3 for the season with a 75-66 victory over California at Berkeley. Mike Lynn's 25 points paced the victorious Bruins, whose last defeat was inflicted by Cincinnati in Los Angeles a month ago. The other teams in The AP Top Ten were idle.

Stanford downed Southern California 73-64, Oregon whipped Washington 71-62, Oregon State beat Washington State 68-52 and San Francisco overcame Los Angeles Loyola 97-66 in other games on the West Coast. All were home court victories.

Columbia stayed on top in the Ivy League by defeating Brown 84-50. Princeton whipped Dartmouth 74-52 and Penn trimmed Harvard 86-65 to remain half a game behind the Lions in league play. These, too, were all home court triumphs.

Hofstra upset New York University 77-75 at Hempstead, N.Y.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Parents Should Check Child's Spelling

As soon as your school child begins to do written work he needs to learn to spell. During all his school life correct spelling will be important to him. When his teacher must read his written work she will be vexed on seeing misspelled words. The more she sees misspelled words the more she will be vexed. Often, a teacher will grade your child's work lower because of poor spelling, no matter how good its content. When the child gets back a paper with many misspelled words marked, he feels discouraged.

Dr. Garry Myers

When this child leaves a note for you or writes a letter home from camp you may be distressed over the many words spelled incorrectly, especially those which are short and often in use. When you see many misspelled words marked on your child's school papers you also may be discouraged.

EARLY in the grades this child may earn low marks at learning lists of words to spell. You may have been helping him at home on these lists. But if he does average or better on these lists, he still may misspell many words when he writes. Some parents are not aware of this problem for years and years.

Let me entreat my fellow parents to check on these matters. Ask your child early in the grades to see his written work returned from school. Still better, ask him to let you see the written work he has prepared at home for school.

Even if you yourself are a poor speller, you can discover most of his misspelled words. When in doubt you can refer to a dictionary.

Among the finest things you can do is to be ready to spell any words your child of any age asks you to spell for him as he writes a letter or a school assignment. Just to tell him angrily, "Go look it up in the dictionary," rarely will bring good results. Seldom will he go to the trouble to do so.

INSTEAD your child will guess and probably spell a word wrong. With sufficient patience, you might occasionally look up the word with him, whether you can spell it or not. However, if he knows you yourself can't spell it, the effect on him could be very good.

It is very important that the child gets a good spelling conscience so as not to feel that it is alright merely to guess, and to fell proud when he has been careful.

A good practice to begin early in your child's school life is to encourage him to write down correctly in a special book the words which have troubled him in his written work. You might write plainly or type some of these words for him. Then you might find good ways to induce him to study these special words so as to master them, a few an evening.

Most often the misspelled words will be spelled phonetically as "wus" for "was," "eny" for "any," "wunce" for once."

AN OCCASIONAL child will have trouble recognizing simple basic sounds in words. In your own way you might easily give him some practice in this direction; also at breaking words up into syllables.

Be very sure the child knows the name of the letters. Some children even in the second grade, can't identify all of them. For these children good spelling is almost impossible.

Then you want to be sure the child sees and hears distinctly. If in doubt have his vision and hearing checked by a specialist.

Whatever you do to try to help your child to be a good speller, the most important factor is the atmosphere in which he works. He must feel that you are serene and patient. You must be skillful at winning his cooperation, his desire to learn to be a good speller.

My bulletins "Home Helps for Poor Spellers" and "Home Fun With Phonics" may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Parents Should Check Child's Spelling

As soon as your school child begins to do written work he needs to learn to spell. During all his school life correct spelling will be important to him. When his teacher must read his written work she will be vexed on seeing misspelled words. The more she sees misspelled words the more she will be vexed. Often, a teacher will grade your child's work lower because of poor spelling, no matter how good its content. When the child gets back a paper with many misspelled words marked, he feels discouraged.

Dr. Garry Myers

When this child leaves a note for you or writes a letter home from camp you may be distressed over the many words spelled incorrectly, especially those which are short and often in use. When you see many misspelled words marked on your child's school papers you also may be discouraged.

EARLY in the grades this child may earn low marks at learning lists of words to spell. You may have been helping him at home on these lists. But if he does average or better on these lists, he still may misspell many words when he writes. Some parents are not aware of this problem for years and years.

Let me entreat my fellow parents to check on these matters. Ask your child early in the grades to see his written work returned from school. Still better, ask him to let you see the written work he has prepared at home for school.

Even if you yourself are a poor speller, you can discover most of his misspelled words. When in doubt you can refer to a dictionary.

Among the finest things you can do is to be ready to spell any words your child of any age asks you to spell for him as he writes a letter or a school assignment. Just to tell him angrily, "Go look it up in the dictionary," rarely will bring good results. Seldom will he go to the trouble to do so.

INSTEAD your child will guess and probably spell a word wrong. With sufficient patience, you might occasionally look up the word with him, whether you can spell it or not. However, if he knows you yourself can't spell it, the effect on him could be very good.

It is very important that the child gets a good spelling conscience so as not to feel that it is alright merely to guess, and to fell proud when he has been careful.

A good practice to begin early in your child's school life is to encourage him to write down correctly in a special book the words which have troubled him in his written work. You might write plainly or type some of these words for him. Then you might find good ways to induce him to study these special words so as to master them, a few an evening.

Most often the misspelled words will be spelled phonetically as "wus" for "was," "eny" for "any," "wunce" for once."

AN OCCASIONAL child will have trouble recognizing simple basic sounds in words. In your own way you might easily give him some practice in this direction; also at breaking words up into syllables.

Be very sure the child knows the name of the letters. Some children even in the second grade, can't identify all of them. For these children good spelling is almost impossible.

Then you want to be sure the child sees and hears distinctly. If in doubt have his vision and hearing checked by a specialist.

Whatever you do to try to help your child to be a good speller, the most important factor is the atmosphere in which he works. He must feel that you are serene and patient. You must be skillful at winning his cooperation, his desire to learn to be a good speller.

My bulletins "Home Helps for Poor Spellers" and "Home Fun With Phonics" may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

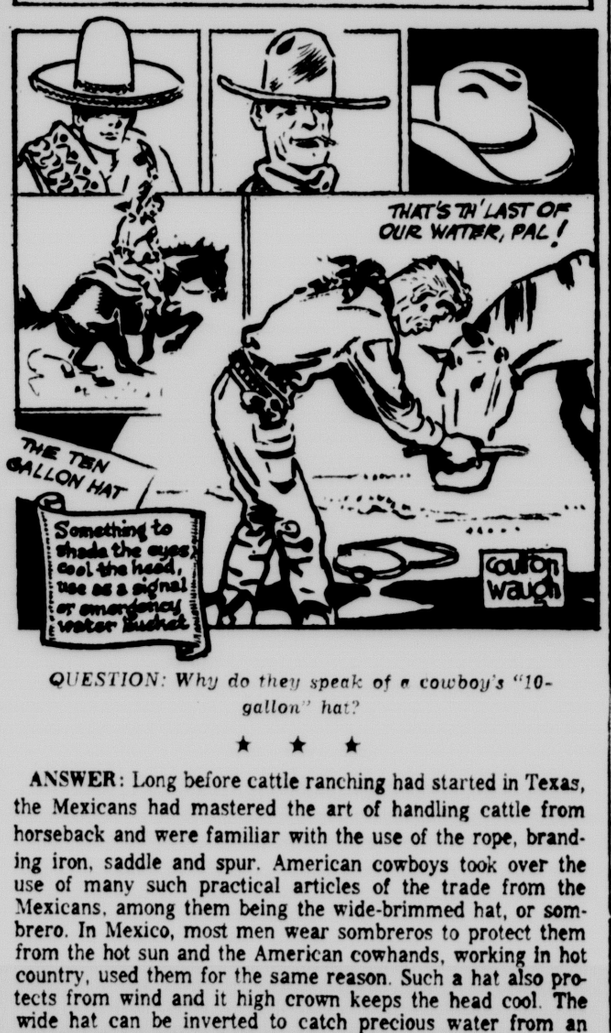
Junior Editors Quiz on 10-GALLON HATS



QUESTION: Why do they speak of a cowboy's "10-gallon" hat?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Long before cattle ranching had started in Texas, the Mexicans had mastered the art of handling cattle from horseback and were familiar with the use of the rope, branding iron, saddle and spur. American cowboys took over the use of many such practical articles of the trade from the Mexicans, among them being the wide-brimmed hat, or sombrero. In Mexico, most men wear sombreros to protect them from the hot sun and the American cowhands, working in hot country, used them for the same reason. Such a hat also protects from wind and it high crown keeps the head cool. The wide hat can be inverted to catch precious water from an occasional rainfall and its crown can be used as a bucket, as in the large picture. The galloping cowboy is using his big hat to signal to a companion. In the 1860's an Easterner, John B. Stetson, went west for his health and designed a handsome cowboy hat of felt which he then began to manufacture in Philadelphia. These "stetsons" became standard articles of cowboy equipment. They were called 10-gallon hats because they could hold so much water in an emergency—the 10-gallon part, was of course, an exaggeration.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Take a look at a gallon jug and visualize a hat whose crown would hold 10 such gallons—its going to stretch your imagination as far as the 10 gallons would stretch a hat.

Hints from Heloise

- By Heloise Cruse -

Dear Heloise: Have you ever thought you just had to have a certain electrical appliance, then discovered you didn't like it or use it a tenth as often as you had thought you would? And wished you didn't have the durned thing taking up space, and you had your money back — so that you could buy something you needed more?

My sister and I have found a way to prevent this from happening, and to save some money.

We swap or borrow each other's electrical appliances for a week or 10 days, and find out just how often we use them, and how well we like them.

For instance, they have a small baby, so she borrowed my blender to see whether it was practical for her to buy one—mainly to make baby food. She decided it was.

I thought I wanted an electric knife sharpener but after borrowing hers for 10 days, I realized there were a dozen things I'd rather spend that money on.

This borrowing idea could apply to many articles—electric can opener, hair dryer, vacuum cleaner, waxer, etc. And, it sure would save on our budgets.

DEAR HELOISE: I find a child's skate board fine to kneel on and scoot around the room for low dusting and wiping up floors.

IRMA.

DEAR HELOISE: I never peel potatoes before boiling for salad. The best part of the potato is next to the skin.

While the potatoes are still warm, I use a paring knife to skin each one. This saves much of the potato that would ordinarily be thrown away.

If the condiments and dressing whatever you use are mixed with the potatoes while they are still warm, they will absorb the flavors. If you wait until they are cold before mixing them, the ingredients will not be absorbed in the potatoes as well.

Home Economist.

DEAR HELOISE: For those who have a medicine cabinet with a metal bottom shelf, try putting self-adhering shelf paper on it to either protect the shelf to keep it from rusting, or to cover an already rusted or damaged surface.

It washes easily, and always looks nice.

CAROL A. HALVORSON.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: If I'm not going to be there by the time the children get home from school, I leave a note on the cookie jar!

You can bet they've never missed finding a single one, as that is one of the first places they head for!

MRS. E. R. M.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a suggestion for putting new covers on feather pillows:

Insert two newspapers inside the new cover. Open one end of the old pillowcase, and gently insert it between the two newspapers.

Remove the pillow, shaking slightly to make the feathers ease down into the new cover. Remove newspapers and stitch open end of new case.

-:-

Pauline, this is one of the slickest suggestions we've had yet, because the feathers will slide on the paper, instead of sticking to the material.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For snagless, trouble-free washing of nylon hose I put the soiled pairs in an old nylon stocking and tie the top shut.

They can then be put in the washer or done by hand.

The hose may be shaken out and hung, or dried as-is, by one pin at the top.

Club To Push New U.S. Aid For Projects

A program urging additional federal aid for East Liverpool projects was adopted at the meeting of the Democratic Boosters Club Friday night at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. office.

The action was taken because the club does not believe the city is getting its share of federal aid, Larry Finlay, who presided, said.

The program includes seeking federal aid for the school construction program, enclosing of the East End Run, establishment of an industrial park and the availability of federal aid to improve streets used by city residents "instead of those used chiefly by suburbanites and transients."

Federal aid should be sought for the school program because of possible rise in construction costs; the open East End Run long has been a nuisance, and our residents need jobs, the club said.

It also discussed plans to establish a non-partisan taxpayers' association "to protect our citizens from pressure groups."

Officers will be elected soon, Finlay said. Another meeting will be held in approximately two weeks but the date and place have not been set.

How To Deal With Obesity

At the weight control session of the American Dietetic Association convention, Dr. Jean Mayer of the Harvard School of Public Health offered some fresh views regarding the whole problem of obesity.

Ida Jean Kain

At the outset, he emphasized the fallacy of relying on height-weight tables alone for determining desirable weight. What is needed is a way of measuring total body fat. Obesity can be defined as too much fat.

AS A GUIDE, how much did you weigh at 25? The weight you have put on since then is likely to be added fat. So, if your weight is much in excess of what was desirable at age 25, to that extent you are obese. Your doctor, using skin calipers, can measure the amount of fat.

The study of hunger and satiety is directly related to reducing. The question to ask yourself is, are you very hungry, or do you eat in spite of not being hungry? In short, is it habit or true hunger?

Dr. Mayer stated that men and women differ in this respect. Men become hungrier after a few mouthfuls are eaten, which encourages overeating. Women are more successful in controlling their weight. Why? "At a meal, fully half of the women stop eating, not because they feel completely satisfied, but because they know they have had enough to eat," he noted.

Advising against fast weight loss, Dr. Mayer said, "If you reduce rapidly, you will regain rapidly."

IS THERE an inherited tendency toward obesity? This authority believes there is such a tendency. He observed that girls with long fingers and narrow hands rarely become overweight, though they may do so later in life. Those with a tendency to gain easily should be on guard to take preventive measures.

Dr. Mayer is a firm believer in exercise to control weight. He urges parents to help overweight children establish sound dietary habits and depend on exercise to reduce their weight. Obesity in children is slowly but steadily increasing throughout the nation. When obesity comes early in life, it is more likely to stay.

Our dilemma: "There is plenty of food available, but not enough means for exercising. Unless you develop eating and exercise habits that will control your weight, you are doomed to be fat today."

Examination Date Set For Fire Chief's Post

The examination will be given Monday, Feb. 21 at 7 p. m. in the Municipal Court chambers, the commission said in an announcement dated Friday and posted at Central Station.

Only the three assistant chiefs —Alfred Van Dyne, James Pelley and Gerald Goodballet — are eligible to take the test for the job, which pays $540 a month. Van Dyne has been serving as acting chief.

State law provides that the man scoring the highest grade shall be promoted. The commission will certify the name to Mayor George E. Willshaw, who is the appointing authority.

In a competitive examination to fill a vacancy in a department, the names of the three men with the highest grades are certified to the safety-service director and he may select any one of the three regardless of the grade.

Applications for the chief's test will be accepted until noon Feb. 19. Forms are available at the mayor's office or from commission members. The notarized blank must be accompanied by a $1 fee.

The commission said the source for material in the examination will be taken from the March 1962 reprint of the fire service training manual distributed by the trade and industrial education instructional material laboratory at Ohio State University.

The eligibility list established by the test will remain in effect for 24 months, the commission said.

Following the appointment of a chief, another promotional examination will be held for eligible firemen to fill the assistant chief's post.

The job now pays $475 a month plus longevity pay based on the number of years of service. The longevity pay provides an additional $25 a month for a man with 20 years' service or more; $20 monthly after 15 years; $15 after 10 years; $10 after 5 years, and $5 after 3 years.

If no eligibility list is in effect for the appointment of a fireman after the assistant chief's post is filled, a competitive examination will be conducted, with the names of the top three men being turned over to Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey for appointment.

Skating Rink Placed In Use

Joe Walters, park superintendent, said the 256-by-100-foot rink, located at the parking lot just west of the swimming pool, will be open as long as weather permits.

The hours will be from noon until 5 and 6 to 10 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays and from 5 to 10 p. m. on week nights at the illuminated rink, Walters said. Skating is free, with the Recreation Council supervising the operation, he added.

The rink is not over two feet deep at any place, the park superintendent said.

The only entrance for motorists will be from the Anderson Blvd. gate, Walters pointed out, emphasizing the main entrance on Park Way will remain closed.

In past years, skating has been provided by forming a pond on the floor of the upper pavilion, but it no longer will be used.

NEW YORK (AP) — John F. Kennedy Jr. knows a thing or two about how to upstage his mother and sister — and end up wearing a halo.

Her book won a Pulitzer Prize. Last week it won a thumbs-down from the Hanover School Bard as immoral.

The Beadle Bumble Fund — named for the Charles Dickens character who made a pointed observation about the absurdidites of officialdom — offered to send a free paperback copy of "Mockingbird" to the first 50 Hanover High School students who asked for one.

From her home in Monroeville, Ala., Miss Lee wrote that she had heard of the Hanover board's activities "and what I've heard makes me wonder if any of its members can read."

But, he added, "the spirit of friendship and an objective consideration of realities have not stopped us from encouraging the American government to moderation and prudence in a way that there be controlled a difficult and painful and dangerous situation."

Air America, the private air line under contract to the U.S. government, announced today that one of its cargo planes crash-landed after it was hit by Viet Cong ground fire and its pilot and copilot were shot to death in the plane's cabin.

John McMann, manager of Air America's Saigon office, said the C47 was hit Friday about 80 miles southwest of Saigon while ferrying rice and other foodstuffs to the Mekong Delta.

He identified the pilot as W.R. Pruner, whose widow, Betty, lives in Oklahoma City, Okla. The copilot was Chang Yong-ho, a Vietnamese. The fate of a third crewman, Nguyen Ban Thai, also a Vietnamese, was not known, McMann said.

He said an investigation had shown that Pruner and Chang were not seriously injured in the crash landing.

"They were shot to death inside the cabin of the plane," McMann said.

In the field, U.S. and Australian troops closed out two major operations against the Vit Cong today.

An American-Australian operation on the western edge of the Iron Triangle, 25 miles northwest of Saigon, recorded an official bag of 151 Viet Cong killed and 91 captured in the two-week search and destroy mission.

American casualties were listed as light in relation to the size of the 8,000-man force.

The Australians lost eight dead and 29 wounded, mostly in fierce combat in the sector containing a vast maze of tunnels and caves. The Australians captured an arsenal of 20,000 rounds of ammunition, 50 weapons, 200 hand grenades and tons of miscellaneous clothing, medical supplies and food.

The 1st Brigade of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division terminated Operation Quick Kick after four days around Phuoc Vinh, 35 miles northeast of Saigon. The insurgents kept a healthy distance from the Big Red One but this cost them dearly in supplies.

The U.S. troops scooped up more than 1,000 tons of rice, destroyed half of it and are evacuating the remainder. Also left behind by the fleeing Viet Cong were 17 tons of peanuts, 70 gallons of cooking oil 33 tons of salt, 89 grenades, nine trucks, 115 gallons of tar, rolls of tin and a quantity of dynamite.

Five tunnel complexes, 32 bunkers and 59 houses were blown up.

Firestone Kidnap Plotter Told Police Plan, Slain

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A kidnap plan that wound through thickets of conspiracy, fear, betrayal and death was the master plot of a man who told police of the scheme and who died as it was being carried out.

The result: George H. Scalla, 28, and William C. Bailey, 44, were cut down by police shotguns Thursday night as they crossed the Firestone threshhold.

Beverly Hills Police Capt. John E. Hankins said that Scalla, who had gone to police in fear for his life, had masterminded the plot and had recruited Bailey.

"Scalla and another person originally planned the kidnaping," Hankins said, "but Scalla's partner got arrested and was sent to jail. Then he went out looking for another and tied in with Bailey.

"He later became afraid of Bailey, and believed that, if he didn't go through with it, Bailey would kill him. He said he knew Bailey would kill him after the kidnaping to shut him up.

"It was at that time that he went to Los Angeles police and told them of the kidnaping, which the officers already knew about.

"He went on the job with the idea that in case there was shooting, he would drop to the ground and protect himself," Hankins explained.

Firestone, a son of the late Harvey S. Firestone, is president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. of California, a branch of the company in Akron, Ohio, founded by his father.

Bailey, father of four, lived with his family in an expensive mansion in suburban Woodland Hills. His attorney, Albert Garber, told newsmen Bailey had "been in trouble with the police" in his youth, but had been a successful land developer and construction estimator since 1950.

Capt. Hankins said his men were investigating a chance that up to 20 persons were involved in the kidnap plot, and that the ransom might be as high as $8 million. This, he said, was disclosed by a strange note in Bailey's wallet.

Firestone, after the shooting was over, said, "This has been a very distressing and upsetting thing to have gone through."

He said he was "disturbed and concerned" and "just made up my mind that I would try to work with the police as best I could."

short time later by Patrolman Charles Amato of Wellsville. They denied any knowledge of the robbery, but were identified by Cunningham.

The charges against the three were filed yesterday afternoon by Jefferson County Prosecutor Dominick Olivito, the affidavit charging they robbed Cunningham Jan. 7 on Sugar Grove Rd. at Mills Hill of a $50 wrist watch, a $27.65 high school ring, a $5 pair of gloves and $2.31 in cash.

After he was dumped from the car, Cunningham went to a nearby home and was taken to the Wellsville fire station by the owner to report the incident.

He provided a description of the car and later it was recognized by Amato, who took the men and juvenile into custody.

The juvenile has been turned over to the Jefferson County juvenile authorities.

The Jefferson County Grand Jury is in session and the case probably will go before the panel next week.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Have you ever thought you just had to have a certain electrical appliance, then discovered you didn't like it or use it a tenth as often as you had thought you would? And wished you didn't have the durned thing taking up space, and you had your money back — so that you could buy something you needed more?

My sister and I have found a way to prevent this from happening, and to save some money.

We swap or borrow each other's electrical appliances for a week or 10 days, and find out just how often we use them, and how well we like them.

For instance, they have a small baby, so she borrowed my blender to see whether it was practical for her to buy one—mainly to make baby food. She decided it was.

I thought I wanted an electric knife sharpener but after borrowing hers for 10 days, I realized there were a dozen things I'd rather spend that money on.

This borrowing idea could apply to many articles—electric can opener, hair dryer, vacuum cleaner, waxer, etc. And it sure would save on our budgets.

Club To Push New U.S. Aid For Projects

A program urging additional federal aid for East Liverpool projects was adopted at the meeting of the Democratic Boosters Club Friday night at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. office.

The action was taken because the club does not believe the city is getting its share of federal aid, Larry Finlay, who presided, said.

The program includes seeking federal aid for the school construction program, enclosing of the East End Run, establishment of an industrial park and the availability of federal aid to improve streets used by city residents "instead of those used chiefly by suburbanites and transients."

Federal aid should be sought for the school program because of possible rise in construction costs; the open East End Run long has been a nuisance, and our residents need jobs, the club said.

It also discussed plans to establish a non-partisan taxpayers' association "to protect our citizens from pressure groups."

Officers will be elected soon, Finlay said. Another meeting will be held in approximately two weeks but the date and place have not been set.

Examination Date Set For Fire Chief's Post

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today scheduled a promotional examination for fire chief to fill the vacancy created by the death Monday of Charles H. Bryan.

The examination will be given Monday, Feb. 21 at 7 p. m. in the Municipal Court chambers, the commission said in an announcement dated Friday and posted at Central Station.

Only the three assistant chiefs —Alfred Van Dyne, James Pelley and Gerald Goodballet — are eligible to take the test for the job, which pays $540 a month. Van Dyne has been serving as acting chief.

State law provides that the man scoring the highest grade shall be promoted. The commission will certify the name to Mayor George E. Willshaw, who is the appointing authority.

In a competitive examination to fill a vacancy in a department, the names of the three men with the highest grades are certified to the safety-service director and he may select any one of the three regardless of the grade.

Applications for the chief's test will be accepted until noon Feb. 19. Forms are available at the mayor's office or from commission members. The notarized blank must be accompanied by a $1 fee.

The commission said the source for material in the examination will be taken from the March 1962 reprint of the fire service training manual distributed by the trade and industrial education instructional material laboratory at Ohio State University.

The eligibility list established by the test will remain in effect for 24 months, the commission said.

Following the appointment of a chief, another promotional examination will be held for eligible firemen to fill the assistant chief's post.

The job now pays $475 a month plus longevity pay based on the number of years of service. The longevity pay provides an additional $25 a month for a man with 20 years' service or more; $20 monthly after 15 years; $15 after 10 years; $10 after 5 years, and $5 after 3 years.

If no eligibility list is in effect for the appointment of a fireman after the assistant chief's post is filled, a competitive examination will be conducted, with the names of the top three men being turned over to Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey for appointment.

Skating Rink Placed In Use

A new ice skating rink in Thompson Park near the municipal swimming pool was opened to the public today for the first time this winter.

Joe Walters, park superintendent, said the 256-by-100-foot rink, located at the parking lot just west of the swimming pool, will be open as long as weather permits.

The hours will be from noon until 5 and 6 to 10 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays and from 5 to 10 p. m. on week nights at the illuminated rink, Walters said. Skating is free, with the Recreation Council supervising the operation, he added.

The rink is not over two feet deep at any place, the park superintendent said.

The only entrance for motorists will be from the Anderson Blvd. gate, Walters pointed out, emphasizing the main entrance on Park Way will remain closed.

In past years, skating has been provided by forming a pond on the floor of the upper pavilion, but it no longer will be used.

People In News

NEW YORK (AP) — John F. Kennedy Jr. knows a thing or two about how to upstage his mother and sister — and end up wearing a halo.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — In the interest of education, Harper Lee, author of "To Kill a Mockingbird," has sent a contribution to the Beadle Bumble Fund.

She hoped, Miss Lee said in a letter to its founder, James Jackson Kilpatrick, editor of the Richmond News Leader, that the money could be used "to enroll the Hanover County School Board in any first grade of its choice."

Her book won a Pulitzer Prize. Last week it won a thumbs-down from the Hanover School Bard as immoral.

The Beadle Bumble Fund — named for the Charles Dickens character who made a pointed observation about the absurdidites of officialdom — offered to send a free paperback copy of "Mockingbird" to the first 50 Hanover High School students who asked for one.

From her home in Monroeville, Ala., Miss Lee wrote that she had heard of the Hanover board's activities "and what I've heard makes me wonder if any of its members can read."

The motion supporting Moro was carried by four government coalition parties — the Christian Democrats, Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans.

Moro emphasized that his government had an "understanding" for the U.S. position in Viet Nam.

"Understanding signifies natural respect, dutiful attention toward the greatest of our allied friends," he said.

But, he added, "the spirit of friendship and an objective consideration of realities have not stopped us from encouraging the American government to moderation and prudence in a way that there be controlled a difficult and painful and dangerous situation."

Moro said his government was following President Johnson's Viet Nam diplomatic offensive "with trust and full favor."

Air America, the private air line under contract to the U.S. government, announced today that one of its cargo planes crash-landed after it was hit by Viet Cong ground fire and its pilot and copilot were shot to death in the plane's cabin.

John McMann, manager of Air America's Saigon office, said the C47 was hit Friday about 80 miles southwest of Saigon while ferrying rice and other foodstuffs to the Mekong Delta.

He identified the pilot as W.R. Pruner, whose widow, Betty, lives in Oklahoma City, Okla. The copilot was Chang Yong-ho, a Vietnamese. The fate of a third crewman, Nguyen Ban Thai, also a Vietnamese, was not known, McMann said.

He said an investigation had shown that Pruner and Chang were not seriously injured in the crash landing.

"They were shot to death inside the cabin of the plane," McMann said.

An American-Australian operation on the western edge of the Iron Triangle, 25 miles northwest of Saigon, recorded an official bag of 151 Viet Cong killed and 91 captured in the two-week search and destroy mission.

The Australians lost eight dead and 29 wounded, mostly in fierce combat in the sector containing a vast maze of tunnels and caves. The Australians captured an arsenal of 20,000 rounds of ammunition, 50 weapons, 200 hand grenades and tons of miscellaneous clothing, medical supplies and food.

Firestone Kidnap Plotter Told Police Plan, Slain

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A kidnap plan that wound through thickets of conspiracy, fear, betrayal and death was the master plot of a man who told police of the scheme and who died as it was being carried out.

The result: George H. Scalla, 28, and William C. Bailey, 44, were cut down by police shotguns Thursday night as they crossed the Firestone threshhold.

Beverly Hills Police Capt. John E. Hankins said that Scalla, who had gone to police in fear for his life, had masterminded the plot and had recruited Bailey.

"Scalla and another person originally planned the kidnaping," Hankins said, "but Scalla's partner got arrested and was sent to jail. Then he went out looking for another and tied in with Bailey.

"He later became afraid of Bailey, and believed that, if he didn't go through with it, Bailey would kill him. He said he knew Bailey would kill him after the kidnaping to shut him up.

"It was at that time that he went to Los Angeles police and told them of the kidnaping, which the officers already knew about.

"He went on the job with the idea that in case there was shooting, he would drop to the ground and protect himself," Hankins explained.

Firestone, a son of the late Harvey S. Firestone, is president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. of California, a branch of the company in Akron, Ohio, founded by his father.

Bailey, father of four, lived with his family in an expensive mansion in suburban Woodland Hills. His attorney, Albert Garber, told newsmen Bailey had "been in trouble with the police" in his youth, but had been a successful land developer and construction estimator since 1950.

Capt. Hankins said his men were investigating a chance that up to 20 persons were involved in the kidnap plot, and that the ransom might be as high as $8 million. This, he said, was disclosed by a strange note in Bailey's wallet.

Firestone, after the shooting was over, said, "This has been a very distressing and upsetting thing to have gone through."

He said he was "disturbed and concerned" and "just made up my mind that I would try to work with the police as best I could."
